Director of Publicity

To the Media:

The Milwaukee Bucks would like to welcome members of the media to the Milwaukee Arena. Our entire organization has an appreciation for your efforts and aims, and will assist you in any way possible. In return, the coverage the media has afforded us throughout our years in the NBA has been superb and we appreciate your dedication. The following are some of the services we will provide and some of the things we ask of you to help us run our operation smoothly.

* Individual game credentials should be requested a minimum of the day before the game, 5 p.m. Friday for Saturday and Sunday games, or noon the day of Monday games. Pre-arranged credentials may be picked up at the will-call window in the southwest corner of the Arena just off the Kilbourn Street entrance. Credentials are good for admittance to the Arena, Press Room, and home and visiting locker rooms. Media members holding Bucks' season passes should notify this office of their intentions to cover a game in order to reserve seating on the press table. All press seating in the Milwaukee Arena is on court level.

* The press room is located on court level in the northeast corner of the Arena. The room opens 1½ hours before the game and again at halftime and following the game. Secure storage of typewriters, coats, and the like is available. We must limit press room usage to members of the media only when valid Bucks' press passes are presented. It is impossible to accommodate family members, friends, guests, or others. The professional intent of the room is to provide a meeting and working place for bonafide writers, reporters, broadcasters, and game personnel.

* Both the Bucks' and visitors' locker rooms will be open up to 45 minutes before game time and ten minutes after the game. Your cooperation is asked in maintaining a work atmosphere in the locker rooms for post-game interviews. Those newspapers with morning deadlines and TV stations doing live spots should be given preference in obtaining players and coaches. Basically, common courtesy should prevail.

* Special instructions for all cameramen can be found on the back of the season photo passes and on the envelopes in which the single game passes are issued.

* Pre-game press notes, lineup and scoring sheets, and the current program insert will be available in the Press Room before the game. Programs will be available on a limited basis. Play-by-play, quarter stats, and half-time box scores will be delivered directly to the press table. Please keep sets quarter-by-quarter. A limited number of play-by-play sheets and halftime boxes will be available in the Press Room after the game. Complete final boxes and fourth quarter play-by-plays will be available after the game in the Press Room.

* The Bucks provide complimentary telecopier service at every home game. Greg Seymour operates the service. Special arrangements to file off day stories or the like can be made through the Bucks publicity office.

* The NBA operates a 24-hour hotline during the season. The 800 number is available through the Bucks publicity office.

Cordially,
Bill King II

BUCKS SET ALL-TIME ATTENDANCE RECORDS IN 1986-87

The Milwaukee Bucks averaged an even 11,000 fans in 41 Milwaukee Arena dates including 36 sellouts. Overall the club drew 450,987 fans. Only 2,145 seats went unsold the entire season. Those figures eclipse the all-time highs of 10,936 for average fans per game (set in 1980-81). In terms of number of sellouts, the 36 sellouts rank second behind the 39 sellouts in 1979-80. The Bucks played to .995% of Arena capacity in 1986-87 a mark bettered only in the 1979-80 season with a .997 percentage. Keep in mind that prior to the 1973-74 season Arena capacity was 10,746. Starting in 1973-74 capacity was increased to 10,938, and to 11,052 in 1980-81.

NBA PLAYOFF FORMAT

A total of 16 teams qualify for the NBA Playoffs, the four division winners and the next six teams in each conference according to their won-lost record, regardless of division. The First Round is best-of-5 and each succeeding round, including the NBA World Championship Series, is best-of-7.

In every series the home-court advantage in the extra game goes to the team with the better record during the regular season, regardless of its standing in the division race. Thus, if a division winner plays a second-place team from another division that had a better record, the second-place team would get the home-court advantage.

In determining the playoff matchups, the eight qualifiers are ranked Teams 3 through 8 according to their records.* The playoff pairings for the First Round are Team 1-8, 2-7, 3-6, and 4-5 in each conference. In the Conference Semifinals, the winner of Team 1-8 plays the winner of Team 4-5 and the winner of Team 2-7 plays the winner of Team 3-6.

The World Championship Series will be played on a 2-3-2 basis, the team with the better regular-season record getting the home-court advantage for the first and last two games. Other best-of-7 series are 2-2-1-1-1.

Some portions of the playoff format were revised in June of 1983 in a vote by the NBA Board of Governors effective in the 1984 Playoffs. The major revisions included allowance for sixteen teams qualifying for the playoffs and the elimination of the first round bye (formerly known as the best-of-3 mini-series) for division winners and inclusion of the First Round best-of-5 series.

TIE-BREAKING PROCEDURE FOR PLAYOFFS

Following is the tie-breaking procedure that is used to determine teams qualifying for the 1988 NBA Playoffs.

Two team ties:

1. Results of games against each other.
2. Winning percentage within own conference.
3. Winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division).
4. Winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference.
5. Point differential in games against each other.
6. Point differential between offense and defense.

Multiple team ties:

1. Cumulative winning percentage in total games involving all tied teams.
2. Winning percentage within own conference.
3. Winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division).
4. Winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference.
5. Point differential between offense and defense.

Notes:

1. Any ties involving the championship of a division are broken first.
2. If a multiple-team tie is reduced to a two-team tie at any point using the above criteria, that situation is then resolved by using the procedures outlined for two team ties.

Magic Number:

To determine the magic number add together the total games remaining for both clubs, divide by two, and subtract the number of games by which one club leads another. That figure is for a tie, add one and you get the magic number.

BROADCAST INFORMATION

Radio broadcasts of all Milwaukee Bucks home and away games are originated by WTMJ, Milwaukee's NBC radio affiliate at 620 on the AM dial. Games are fed to a statewide network of over 30 stations throughout Wisconsin.

Jim Irwin is the "Voice of the Bucks" and is joined courtside for 41 home games by Jon McGlocklin for color commentary.

The Milwaukee Bucks and WVTU-Channel 18 will televise 30 road games back to Milwaukee on WVTU-Channel 18 during the 1987-88 season. The Bucks are currently in the third year of a three-year agreement with WVTU. The pact gives WVTU the rights to thirty Bucks regular season road games and as many Bucks playoff games as are available.

Veteran sportscaster Jim Paschke will call the action for Channel 18 again this season while Jon McGlocklin will continue to provide color commentary.

MacGregor — Bucks Basketball Camps Ron Blomberg — Director

Let's imagine for a moment that a parent has noticed that his son or daughter has shown a flair for backyard basketball. Maybe he or she isn't quite a Sidney Moncrief or Paul Pressey, but the child is regularly expressing his enjoyment in words and actions.

Then the subject of summer camp comes up. So mom and dad start their search.

"The first question a parent needs to ask is what is the ratio of campers to instructors," explained Ron Blomberg, director of the MacGregor-Bucks basketball camps. "It should never be more than 10 to 1."

"Secondly, the parent must learn who are the people staffing the camp. Are they teachers? Coaches? Are they there for the right reasons, not just basketball but for the overall welfare of the child?"

Blomberg should know of what he speaks. He's a long time basketball coach and announcer in the area. And for the last 25 years his summers have been spent with basketball campers.

Now, along with Jerry Sullivan, the one-time basketball coach at South Milwaukee High School, Blomberg works with the MacGregor-Bucks organization in providing youngsters from fourth grade through high school the opportunity to develop and hone their growing basketball skills.

"As far as I know, we're the only fulltime camp concept in the nation," said Blomberg, explaining how the MacGregor-Bucks organization maintains regular contact with campers throughout the year.

Blomberg is ecstatic about the reputation the camps are earning. Part of it is due to the facilities involved. Boarders get to work and live in the settings provided at Carroll College in Waukesha; the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater; Lakeland College near Sheboygan; St. John's Military Academy in Delafield, and Wayland Academy near Beaver Dam.

Day campers use the outstanding facilities at Cudahy and Whitefish Bay high schools, as well as Carroll College.

In addition, camps are run at Knox College in Illinois and Alma College in Michigan.

Blomberg and Sullivan also organize speciality camps, such as "big-man" and guard camps, but the bulk of the operation is geared for the youngster who simply wants to learn some of the finer points of the game.

"We have a coach and counsellor for every 12 kids," Blomberg pointed out. "And we make a special emphasis on having a counsellor who has been through the program as a camper so he (or she) understands what we're trying to do."

Every attempt is made to get the campers into a program that suits their level of ability, thus a screening process goes on during the first few days of camp. He takes pride in illustrating the concept with a rather well known example.

"At our camp in Alma, we had a seventh grader," he explained. "After the first day, we moved him up a notch because of his ability. After the second day we moved him up another notch, and eventually, he ended up playing with the older, high school kids. His name was Magic Johnson."

But Blomberg was quick to point out that this example is an exception to the rule. "We make sure every young person has the opportunity to get through the program no matter the ability level," he said. "We want every young person to be sure to have the opportunity to go through the ranks."

Blomberg assures parents there is a place for every child in one of the 24 different sessions of the summer camps. He welcomes the opportunity to discuss camp opportunities at a MacGregor-Bucks Camp and can be reached at 786-0366.

BUCKS FACE WEIGHTY CONCERNS WITH APLOMB

Bigger . . . Stronger . . . Quicker.

Those adjectives describe the direction and progression that athletes of today are heading. In fact, the athlete of today is growing by such proportions that if one doesn't keep pace, he will almost assuredly end up "getting sand kicked in his face" by the better-conditioned specimen.

To become physically stronger and better conditioned is no longer an advantage but a necessity to remain competitive. Weightlifting is generally regarded as the way to "keep pace" and the Milwaukee Bucks have implemented such a program.

Why? For one, the belief of basketball being a non-contact sport has long since faded, and two, the thought of driving to the basket against 6-10, 250 pound behemoths (ala Charles Barkley or Mark Eaton) is not for the faint of heart, or body.

Milwaukee Bucks Head Coach Del Harris is one who is sold on the idea that players must be physically able to absorb the constant beating that the body takes during an NBA season. "I felt the need to have a physical maintenance program because certainly it's the trend in all sports," said Harris. "Fortunately, we have a trainer (Jeff Snedeker) and Mike Jelich (Bucks' strength and conditioning consultant) who are very knowledgeable about the relationship of weight training as it fits the basketball player. We're confident that the program devised is on the cutting edge of what physical conditioning is for the basketball player."

The program was devised by Snedeker and Jelich, with input from Harris, and was designed to fit the specific needs of a basketball player; in general to maintain a players strength level while also trying to improve their muscular endurance (stamina).

"We're looking for better conditioning, particularly towards the end of the year and into the playoffs when it's really important to keep the players physically sharp," said Snedeker. "The program is designed to fulfill those goals. We want the players to perform as well in the seventh game of the final playoffs as they do in the first game of the season. If you don't take steps toward that goal your team is apt to suffer."

Jelich, who spoke on the Bucks' conditioning program in June at the National Strength and Conditioning Association's national convention in Las Vegas, echoed those sentiments.

"We're not trying to turn players into bodybuilders or nose guards; we're simply trying to make them stronger basketball players," Jelich said. "The players not only have to be strong in regard to basketball skills, but they have to be able to perform for a long period of time. That requires a high level of muscular endurance which unlike injuries, is a factor that can be controlled and improved."

Each player follows the same format, although each begins at a level tailored to his specific needs based on strength tests performed during training camp. The program consists of a five-week cycle and includes five different weekly protocols. Each exercise was designed with a basketball player in mind and attempts to create a work environment similar to that experienced in a game.

The five-week program is repeated throughout the season twice weekly, although the rigors of the NBA schedule and fatigue can oftentimes cause disruptions. Each session is quite intense, according to Jelich, and generally only takes between 15 to 27 minutes.

"We want them to finish as fast as possible," explained Jelich. "All we're trying to do is maintain strength level because it's very tough to build strength during the season due to all the other physical stresses. As basketball players we do have to be careful working with the lower body because that's where most overuse disorder problems lie, such as jumper's knee. So, we do focus slightly less on the legs."

Jelich, who spent the 1984-85 season in a similar position with the Bucks, received his undergraduate degree from the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse in physical and health education and earned his masters from Utah State University in exercise physiology.

While at Utah State he served as a graduate teaching assistant in the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. Following that, Jelich acted as the strength and conditioning coach for the United States Sports Academy in Saudi Arabia where he worked directly with the Royal Saudi Air Force personnel.

In addition to his position with the Bucks, Jelich also heads his own business called Newbody Fitness Consulting in which he designs, implements, monitors and evaluates a conditioning program to meet an individual's specific needs.

Strength and Conditioning Consultant Mike Jelich supervises the weight training of Randy Breuer.

MILWAUKEE BUCKS FILM LIBRARY AND SPEAKERS BUREAU

The Milwaukee Bucks have an extensive film library available for your school, church, civic or special interest group. Topics of the films range from highlight films of the Bucks, All-Star game highlights, and the NBA World Championship Playoff highlights.

The Milwaukee Bucks speakers bureau has front office personnel, members of the coaching staff, and players available for speaking engagements. The availability of a coach or player depends upon team commitments pertaining to games and practice schedules. There is a minimum fee of $300 for a player or coach. For complete information contact the Bucks at 414/272-6030.

If you'd like to have a film for a presentation at your school or meeting, simply drop a line on your group's letterhead to Bill King II, Publicity Director, Milwaukee Bucks, 901 North Fourth Street, Milwaukee, WI 53203. The letter should request the film or films (maximum of two [2] films at one time) with alternate choices and a preferred date for viewing along with a backup date. A deposit check payable to the Milwaukee Bucks in the amount of $25 for each film should be included with the letter. The check will be returned upon receipt of the film or films in good condition. All films are 16 mm with full color and sound. The projector and screen are not included. Films must be picked up and returned to the Bucks' office at 901 North Fourth Street, Milwaukee, WI unless other arrangements are made. Requests must be made a minimum of two weeks in advance. The Bucks have the following films available in their library:

- "JUST THE BEGINNING" — as the title indicates, this film covers the premiere edition of the Milwaukee franchise in the NBA. Narrated by Eddie Doucette. Approximately 30 minutes.
- "BIG GREEN LINE" — narrated by Eddie Doucette, this film deals with the Bucks second year in the NBA, the year they were joined by Lew Alcindor and Oscar Robertson. Sponsored by Miller Brewing Company. Approximately 30 minutes.
- "COUNTDOWN TO A DREAM" — narrated by Eddie Doucette, this film recaps the Milwaukee Bucks successful bid for an NBA World Championship during the 1970-71 season. Approximately 30 minutes.
- "ALMOST PERFECT" — highlights from the Bucks quest for a second NBA championship in the 1973-74 season when they met Boston in the finals — approximately 30 minutes.
- "GREEN & GROWING" — 1977-78 highlight film of the Bucks, particularly the seven-game playoff series vs. Denver. 13 minutes.
- "SKY'S THE LIMIT" — 1979-80 highlight film of the Bucks playoff series vs. Seattle — approximately 12-15 minutes
- "1981-82 HIGHLIGHT" — Bucks team highlight film from the 1981-82 season that includes the six-game playoff series vs. Philadelphia and updates from the draft and off-season moves by the club — approximately 15 minutes.
- "UP, UP & AWAY" — vintage film from the 1967-68 season that keys on the 18th Annual All-Star game in New York (1968) and in general contains highlights of the League's top talent and all the teams. Approximately 30 minutes.
- "1970 NBA CHAMPIONSHIP" — highlights of the world championship playoff round between the Los Angeles Lakers and New York Knickerbockers — approximately 30 minutes.
- "1978 NBA CHAMPIONSHIP" — highlights of the world championship playoff series between the Seattle Supersonics and Washington Bullets — approximately 30 minutes.
- "1979 NBA CHAMPIONSHIP" — highlights of the world championship playoff series between the Seattle Supersonics and Washington Bullets — approximately 30 minutes.
- "1980 NBA CHAMPIONSHIP" — highlights of the world championship playoff series between the Los Angeles Lakers and Philadelphia 76ers — approximately 30 minutes.
- "CELEBRATION" — covers the 1981 NBA Playoffs and Championship round that sees the Boston Celtics capture the title over the Houston Rockets. Approximately 30 minutes.
- "SOMETHING TO PROVE" — highlights of the 1982 world championship playoff series between the Los Angeles Lakers and Philadelphia 76ers — approximately 30 minutes.
- "NBA SILVER ANNIVERSARY" — a history of the first 25 years of the NBA — approximately 30 minutes.
- "SCHOOLYARD DREAMS" — 35th NBA Anniversary film covering the first 35 years of the NBA. Approximately 30 minutes.
- "1983-84 NBA HIGHLIGHTS & OUTTAKES" — Basketball's version of baseball bloopers and football follies. Unique pieces set to music. Starts out with a recap of the 1983-84 season and continues with great dunks, blocks, shots, etc. — approximately 20 minutes.
- "1977 ALL-STAR" — highlights from the game in Milwaukee — approximately 30 minutes.
- "1978 ALL-STAR" — highlights from the game in Atlanta — approximately 30 minutes.
- "CONVERSE HIGHLIGHTS" — highlights of all major and minor basketball tournament finals in college and the NBA and ABA Championships in 1971. Approximately 30 minutes.
- "NCAA 1969 HIGHLIGHTS" — highlights of the NCAA basketball tournament with UCLA winning the title — approximately 30 minutes.
- "PEPSI HOTSHOTS" — a film, circa 1977, that traces the history and organization of the highly successful Pepsi-Cola Hotshot Competition. The film explains the general principles and rules behind the competition and actually follows contestants from the beginning rounds to the national shootoff.

MECCA'S GEOMETRIC COURT

Designed by Robert Indiana

The design on the court you see before you was developed by Robert Indiana. Indiana has said of himself, "I am an American painter of signs charting the course. I would be a people's painter as well as a painter's painter."

Succinctly he has explained his aims, and at the same time the reasons for his success, of which there can be no doubt. Since his first art show in 1960, Mr. Indiana's art has been seen and acclaimed internationally. The floor design, along with LeRoy Nieman's "Basketball Superstars" painting for the 1977 All-Star Game in Milwaukee, is the second major piece of art nationally recognized to have originated from Milwaukee.

Robert Indiana has established a lasting reputation as an artist who paints America. He paints about his country, its people, and about himself; as well as about the traditions and cultures we all know. Because his art speaks of the nature of our land and the American people, Robert Indiana is destined to be among the great American masters such as Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, and Edward Hooper.

Indiana was one of the leaders of the Pop Art movement of the 1960's and 70's. The trademarks of his art are the lettered signs, directional symbols, commercial illustrations, precise shapes, and intensely active colors. His art has been referred to "as American as apple pie." He deals with signs of life in both vocabulary and form. Like highway signs, his paintings are geometric shapes with bright, bold numbers and letters upon them. LOVE is perhaps his most famous series of paintings.

Claiming the same hometown as former Buck Kent Benson in New Castle, Indiana, Mr. Indiana's works are on display across the country, in such institutions as the Carnegie Institute of Arts in Pittsburgh, the Chicago Museum of Contemporary Art, the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City, Yale and Princeton Universities, and the Milwaukee Art Center. Previously, Indiana has been commissioned to redesign the U.S. one-cent piece by ART IN AMERICA, to create a mural for the New York State Pavilion at the New York World's Fair, and by the United States Government to design a Special Stamp for Someone Special in the denomination of 8 cents and issued originally in Philadelphia in 1973, to name a few prominent works.

Robert Indiana has lived and worked in New York since 1954.

The court itself is the same that has been in use during past seasons. Before being painted, it was completely refinished and sealed. Indiana signed the court of the southwest corner with a can of spray paint and a specially prepared stencil. Mr. Indiana also designed the banners that hang above the upper parquet around the Arena. The colors were also picked up in the outer lobbies when MECCA refurbished those facilities. Total cost of the project approached $40,000 with a portion of that recouped by the sale of banners and posters similar to those in the Arena.

THE BRADLEY CENTER

The Bradley Center, Milwaukee's new, 20,000 seat, sports and entertainment facility, is scheduled to open in October, 1988. When completed, it will allow both patrons and participants to experience the finest, state-of-the-art arena in the nation.

Architecturally fashioned after the great coliseums of antiquity, the Bradley Center covers more than a square city block and will rise to a height of 13 stories when its vaulted roof is in place. It will be the new home of the Milwaukee Bucks professional basketball team, the Marquette University Warriors basketball team, and the Admirals professional hockey team. It will also host family shows and musical events.

Team members entering the playing floor or hockey ice from their ground level locker and training spaces will not look up on the traditional one concourse seating bowl found in most modern arenas. Instead they will see three levels of seating surrounding them. Seating on the first concourse will slope down 26 rows from the concourse entrances to the edge of the playing surface. About 9,000 fans can be seated in this lower section.

Above the first concourse a floor of at least 60 private suites will encircle the entire arena. Access to this floor will be limited to suite holders and their guests. The press box will also be at this level.

The third concourse, slightly concave in its design, will rise 21 rows to approximately 85 feet above the playing floor. The suite level and third concourse will seat about another 11,000 patrons.

Over the players heads and high on the north and south walls of the arena will be the latest in sophisticated electronic scoreboards. Players and fans alike will be able to view instant replays in full color and sharp clarity.

For patrons, entering the building and going to their seats will also be an experience. They will initially pass through one of two large, glass enclosed atriums, 60 feet high, lined with double rows of massive columns. Stairs, escalators and elevators will take them to their appropriate concourses, allowing people to view the city from three directions in the process. Eight escalators will go to the first concourse, four to the second level suites and four to the third concourse.

There will be no "bad seats" in the Bradley Center. Computer aided design has ensured clear sightlines to the floor from every chair. There are no pillars to obstruct views. And the high vaulted ceiling will create a feeling of spaciousness wherever a fan is seated.

Fans will find the building divided into four quadrants, each with its own amenities on each concourse or level. Fans seeking food at the liberally supplied concession stands will not have to worry about missing any action. Closed circuit television of the event will be provided at each stand.

FAMOUS FIRSTS IN BUCK HISTORY

FIRST DRAFT CHOICE — In the 1968 College Draft, the Bucks named Charlie Paulk of Northeastern State (Oklahoma) their first draft pick of all-time.

FIRST GAME — On October 16, 1968 the Milwaukee Bucks played their first NBA game against Chicago. The Bucks were defeated 89-84 before a Milwaukee Arena crowd of 8,467. Guy Rodgers led the Bucks in scoring with 16 points.

FIRST WIN — After losing the first five games, Milwaukee responded with a 134-118 victory over Detroit at the Arena for the first win ever on October 31, 1968. Wayne Embry led the Bucks in scoring with 30 points — the first player in history to score 30 for Milwaukee.

FIRST ROAD WIN — Milwaukee's first victory on the road came on the twelfth try at San Francisco. The Bucks won 107-101 with Fred Hetzel pumping in 22 points on November 30, 1968.

FIRST SELLOUT — On February 27, 1969 the Milwaukee Bucks played before a capacity crowd at the Arena for the first time. 10,746 fans jammed the Arena to witness a 126-117 victory over Baltimore. Flynn Robinson led the way with 35 points.

FIRST WINNING SEASON — In only their second year of existence the Bucks won 56 while losing only 26.

FIRST PLAYOFF GAME — March 25, 1970. The Bucks defeated the Philadelphia 76ers at Madison 125-118 in the team's first playoff action ever. Lew Alcindor scored 36 points in the opening victory. Milwaukee went on to win the series 4 games to 1. However, they fell to the eventual NBA Champions, the New York Knickerbockers in five games.

FIRST NBA CHAMPIONSHIP — The Milwaukee Bucks had gone further, faster than any expansion team in the history of professional sports in their third season of play. In 1970-71 the Bucks won 66 and lost 16 in the regular season then went on to become the NBA Champions. They defeated Baltimore in four games in the finals.

FIRST MVP AWARD — Lew Alcindor was named the NBA's MVP following the 1970-71 season. The first Buck to win the award led the League in scoring with a 31.7 average.

FIRST THREE POINT SHOT — Brian Winters canned the first three point shot for the Milwaukee Bucks on October 25, 1979. Milwaukee defeated the Clippers at San Diego 118-115 in the contest.

PLAYER PERSONNEL GUIDE

ACTIVE LIST

The maximum number of active players is 12, the minimum is 11. At no time shall a team be permitted to dress fewer than eight players for a regular game or nine for a playoff game. During the offseason and training camp, teams may carry no more than 20 active players.

INJURED LIST

A player transferred to the injured list due to injury or illness, must stay there for no fewer than five games.

TEN-DAY CONTRACT

On or after the 55th day following the first game, a team may sign a player to a 10-day contract. This procedure may be used only to replace a player assigned to the injured list. No player may be signed to more than two 10-day agreements.

TRADING DEADLINE

No trades are permitted after midnight on February 15. From that point to the end of the regular season, player additions must be made through the waiver procedure, or by signing free agents.

WAIVERS

From August 15 to the end of the regular season, clubs may claim waived players within 48 hours after notice. Players waived at any other time, may be claimed within 10 days. If no teams claim the waived player, he becomes a free agent. If more than one club claims a waived player, the one with the lesser record at that time claims the player.

GUARANTEED CONTRACT DATE

On the 56th day of the regular season, all player contracts become guaranteed for the remainder of the season.

RENUNCIATION OF AMATEUR ELIGIBILITY

A person whose high school class has graduated shall become eligible for the college draft if he renounces his intercollegiate basketball eligibility by written notice to the NBA at least 45 days prior to the draft. Prior to 45 days before the draft, teams may not make direct or indirect contact with players who have eligibility left. Clubs may contact players without remaining eligibility, but may not discuss compensation.

FRONT OFFICE PROFILES

Some 41 times a year, Herb Kohl takes his center court seat on the west side of MECCA, removes his owner's hat, and becomes a rabid fan of the Milwaukee Bucks.

"I want to win, just as much as any other fan," Kohl explained from his downtown Milwaukee office. "I look at the game like any fan. I'm interested in the final result. I want to see the Bucks win."

It was in March of 1985 that Kohl proved he was the consummate fan—not only of the Bucks, but also of the City of Milwaukee. Rather than allowing the club to be purchased by out of town interests ready to move the team, Kohl paid some $18 to $19 million dollars to keep the team here. At the time, it was the highest price ever paid for an NBA franchise. It was a price paid as much with his heart as his mind.

"I thought of the consequences for Milwaukee," Kohl recalled. "I didn't think of the cost or the arena problems. I didn't think of any reasons why the former owners were selling.

"But I said I have the time, the interest, and the resources. Apparently there was no one else in the community able to do what was needed to keep the team here. And I and my family had had such enormous success in this community, so it was a way to express our appreciation."

It proved to be Kohl's entry into a different arena of public life. He had been a successful businessman. He had contributed to civic, charitable, and political endeavors.

"But this has been an interesting experience for me," he said. "I was not unaware of the differences between being a public person and private person. But more so than anything, in private life you can make a decision with people and then you don't have that decision disseminated, discussed, dissected and, in a sense, voted on by the public.

"But when you buy a sports team, whether you like it or not, decisions you make end up being written about, discussed, debated, and voted on. And what's clearly demonstrated over a period of time is whether that decision is more right or more wrong because the team wins more or loses more, draws more people, or draws fewer people."

There's been little reason for Kohl to hide. Despite playing in the Central Division, considered the toughest in the NBA by most experts, the Bucks are coming off their seventh straight 50-win season. The team also remains successful at the gate, drawing at 99 percent of capacity.

"This was a successful business when I bought it," Kohl explained. "My ego is not such that I have to have my own people or put my own imprint on it. I don't have that kind of need. I've always said that if it's not broken, don't fix it."

Kohl, however, is realistic enough to realize that change is inevitable. This season that change comes in the form of new head coach Del Harris, who is taking over after the 11-year reign of Don Nelson. Harris is joined by new assistants Frank Hamblem, Mike Dunleavy, and Mack Calvin.

"In the basketball end, we're a new organization," Kohl pointed out. "Del has been associated with us for several years, but this is his first year as head coach for us. We have new assistants from top to bottom.

"It's exciting for me to work with these people. They're extremely enthusiastic about the challenge we face. They very much want to be successful."

The next step for Kohl is to help prepare the franchise for its move to the new Bradley Center, a move scheduled for the 1988-89 season.

"I guess I'm like most fans," he said. "On one hand, there is tremendous anticipation for the Bradley Center, which is clearly going to be something special. On the other hand, there is a certain nostalgia, a strong nostalgia for what 20 years in the Arena has meant to the Bucks.

"But progress needs to be served. Sometimes, you have to put the past behind and move into the future. You always remember the past, remember it fondly. But you must always recognize there's a future, and that's what the Bradley Center represents."

Kohl remains optimistic, yet realistic regarding the future of the Milwaukee Bucks.

"When I bought this team, I hoped there would not be too much difficulty, too much frustration or failure. I should have known that as the owner of any enterprise, and sports is no exception, you are always faced with hard decisions, adversity, disappointment as well as success. In my case, I see that very clearly. You don't necessarily win every year. But you keep on regenerating, working, stay optimistic, and hope all your efforts over the long haul will be rewarded."

There is one certainty, though. Milwaukee has been rewarded by Kohl's ownership. It's a mutual feeling.

"The justification I had for buying the team was that this community had brought our family so much happiness, so much success. And on top of that, I enjoy it."

Del Harris Head Coach

Forgive Del Harris for his gnawing sense of déjà vu. In a sense, he has been here before.

True, this is Harris' first year as head coach of the Milwaukee Bucks. But this is not his first tenure as a head coach in the NBA, having previously led the Houston Rockets from 1979-'83, including a trip to the NBA finals in 1981.

Harris has paid his dues with the Bucks. For three years, he was one of the Bucks' chief scouts, eyeing primarily Western Conference clubs for former coach Don Nelson. Apparently, he did quite a job as the Bucks posted a 52-19 record against Western Conference clubs in that span.

Last season, he made the move back to coaching in the NBA, becoming Nelson's chief assistant.

Then on June 4, Harris took the big step, succeeding Nelson to become only the third head coach in the Bucks' successful 20-year history.

"When I was with Houston, I took over a veteran club like the Bucks are and we went to the playoffs for three consecutive years," the 50-year-old Harris recalled after taking the Bucks' helm. "It should be easier this time around because of that experience."

If Harris is anything, it's experienced. His coaching career began more than a quarter of a century ago. In 1965, he became head coach of Earlham College (Indiana), winning 176 games in 10 seasons. His teams were in the NAIA Top Ten twice in that span and won three conference championships.

It was at that point that Harris made his move to the pro game, becoming an assistant coach for the Utah Stars of the old American Basketball Association. In 1976, he began his long association with the Rockets, which culminated when he took over as head coach in 1979.

He returns to the head coaching ranks wiser and eager for the strenuous task.

"It would be hard for me to overstate how excited and thankful I am to be the head coach of as great a team as the Milwaukee Bucks," he explained.

Harris points out that he needs no introduction to his players. "The first priority of any new coach is to get a good working knowledge of the players' abilities and get a feel for them as people," he said. "I won't have to do that because of my experience with the Bucks."

Harris, however, is quick to point out that there are some disadvantages, as well. The primary one is that he no longer will serve as the chief intermediary between the players and head coach. "Somebody has to be the guy who does the butt-kicking from time to time, and that's the job of the head coach," he said.

Harris takes over a team that has won 50 or more games for seven straight seasons. In addition, the Bucks have an eight-year playoff appearance streak. With a strong core of veterans returning, Harris sees little reason to make major changes in the Bucks' basketball philosophy.

"What we know as the Bucks' system should continue to evolve," he explained. "This staff has always been very open to the suggestions of the players, and we hope to follow that plan and continue the dialogue."

However, underneath that gray-haired, conservative Hoosier demeanor lies a gambler.

"I think you could say I'm a little bit more of a risk taker on both ends of the court than what we have had in the past," he said, noting how he favors the fast break game when the opportunity presents itself.

"We'll have that strong emphasis on defense, which is a Bucks' trademark, and continue with the strong team concept on offense. We'll stay within the framework and then adjust as the season unfolds."

Making Harris' job more difficult is the Bucks' position in the Central Division. The Atlanta Hawks ended the team's string of six straight Central Division titles last season, while the Detroit Pistons slipped ahead of the Bucks into second place. And the Chicago Bulls, Indiana Pacers, and Cleveland Cavaliers appear ready to knock on the contending door.

"It seems that every year there's a surprise team," Harris pointed out, "and I don't expect that this season will be any different."

"It's safe to say that we play in the best division in the NBA. Atlanta didn't have to strengthen itself. Detroit and Chicago made big strides in the off season. Indiana and Cleveland are two young teams which should be stronger just because of an added year of experience."

"To counteract that, we have got to be working on developing the younger players we already have. If we can get good years out of Ice (Jerry Reynolds) and Brew (Randy Breuer), for example, or get improvement out of, say, Keith Smith, then we should be able to hold our own for next year and be in good shape for the future."

Harris' future appears bright. In addition to his new job, he has new responsibilities on the home front, having married Ann Chiarelli just two days after being named head coach. In addition, his daughter Carey, 17, will join him in Milwaukee this fall. She will attend Marquette University where she is expected to play on the women's basketball team.

Harris also has reason to be proud of his three sons. Larry, 24, graduated cum laude from Eastern New Mexico and works for General Motors in Detroit. Alex, 23, graduated magna cum laude from Hardin-Simmons University and works for I.T.T. in Denver. Stan, 18, was a red-shirt freshman at Eastern New Mexico last season.

His children obviously picked up where dad left off. Harris graduated cum laude with a degree in religion from Milligan College (Tennessee) in 1959 and followed that up with a master's degree in history from Indiana University in 1965.

Now it's time for Harris to put those smarts to use for the Bucks. He feels he's learned his lessons.

"The main thing I've learned with the Bucks over the last four years is to listen to the players. They have a lot to offer in terms of how they can best play the game.

"And I'm convinced that allowing that kind of effective input from intelligent players will reward a coach with a more concentrated and dedicated effort."

The Milwaukee Bucks have always been recognized as a consistent winner on the basketball court, yet the team is also a big winner off the court.

One of the persons responsible for this success is John Steinmiller, the Bucks' Vice-President of Business Operations since 1977.

The 37-year-old Steinmiller is in charge of the day-to-day operations of the team and coordinates all of the Bucks' business affairs.

"I work with the basketball staff to coordinate our mutual effort of working towards our goal of being a successful basketball team on and off the court," he said. "Though we are a basketball team, we are also a viable business. I work with our capable front-office staff to reach our off-court goals."

The 1986-87 season was a successful one, Steinmiller said.

"It was a very good year on and off the floor," Steinmiller says. "We had record attendance figures and we were extremely successful in broadcast sales."

"Plus, we moved a step closer to the Bradley Center."

The impending move into the Bradley Center next season has Steinmiller very excited.

"We will be moving to an arena that is a state-of-the-art facility with many more seats to sell," Steinmiller said. "We will also be able to broaden our market. Right now we consistently draw from a 40-50 mile base. But when we move into the Bradley Center we will need to have customers from a 100-mile plus area."

Steinmiller said the move will be a welcome challenge for the energetic front office staff which has established itself as one of the best in pro sports, despite operating in the smallest market in the National Basketball Association.

"We will go from a scarce ticket situation to a plentiful situation. Our goal is to boost attendance by several thousand during the first year. We will need to execute new plans and approaches to sell tickets," he said. "And we will do so in a creative manner."

Steinmiller joined the Bucks in 1970, after graduating from Marquette University with a degree in journalism. He started in the organization as an administrative assistant for the Bucks' summer camps with additional duties in the ticket and promotional areas.

After two years, at the age of 23, Steinmiller became the youngest publicity director in professional sports. He was named to his current position of Director of Business Operations in 1977.

His tenure with the Bucks has been special, Steinmiller said.

"It's been a very exciting 18 years," he said. "It has been full of every emotion possible and has been rewarding both professionally and personally. This organization has enabled me to develop as a professional in the sports industry, and I am very grateful for that opportunity."

"Ours has been a very stable organization that has recognized its role in the community and provided the people with what they want. The people of this city and state value their sports teams and give them loyal support."

Steinmiller, a native of Mt. Prospect, Illinois, is active in the Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer (MAACC) fund. He is also an officer of the Milwaukee Big Brothers-Big Sisters and is a member of the trustees of the Ronald McDonald House for families of hospitalized children.

He enjoys tennis and follows all sports. He and his wife, Corinne, live in Shorewood with their six-year-old son John Henry and three-year-old daughter Mary Kate.

As he looks to the future, the challenges continue for the hard-working Steinmiller.

"It's going to be a very busy and exciting year as we make our transition into the Bradley Center," he said.

"We need to work hard to make sure we prosper in the Bradley Center. It will take extra work from our entire organization but it will be well worth it, for us and our fans."

BOSTON, MILWAUKEE AND LOS ANGELES LAKERS: THE NBA ELITE

The Bucks are the second-winningest franchise in NBA history behind only the fabled Celtics. Boston has posted a winning percentage of .640% (2,016-1,133) in 41 seasons, while Milwaukee is next at .610% (950-608) in 19 years and the Lakers follow at .604% (1,836-1,203) in 39 campaigns (the Lakers accomplished that in both Minneapolis and Los Angeles).

CENTRAL DIVISION REIGNS SUPREME

The Central was generally regarded as the best division in pro basketball during the 1986-87 season and justly so. For only the fourth time since the NBA went to four divisions (in 1970-71) did three members of one division reach 50 wins. Atlanta (57), Detroit (52) and Milwaukee (50) all reached that lofty figure in 1986-87. Furthermore, the Eastern Conference also hit a landmark in 1986-87 as eight teams in the East posted 40-victory years; Atlanta, Detroit, Milwaukee, Indiana, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and Washington. That marked a first for the Eastern Conference.

Bob Zuffelato

Director of Player Personnel

Bob Zuffelato joins the Milwaukee Bucks organization with a quarter century of solid basketball coaching experience to back him up and a genuine enthusiasm for the sport and team that is inspiring.

Head Coach Del Harris said of Zuffelato at the time he was hired, "Bob comes to us highly recommended with a strong background in the college game as well as experience in the NBA. He has established himself as a sincere, competent basketball person who we will depend on to direct our college scouting and personnel development and evaluation. He will complement our new staff members very well."

Zuffelato joined the Bucks just prior to the start of training camp on September 30. He spent the prior eleven months as an associate of prominent sports attorney Bob Woolf of Boston, Massachusetts. Before that he served as an Assistant Coach with the Golden State Warriors from 1983 to 1986.

"I'm very, very excited and really looking forward to this opportunity," said Zuffelato. "I'm really impressed with the Bucks organization and excited as heck to be back in the NBA. I've had a one year hiatus from basketball. During that time I've been very fortunate to have a super job with Bob Woolf. It's tough to leave but the opportunity in Milwaukee and to get back into the NBA is overwhelming."

Working with the noted Boston-based attorney, Zuffelato notes he has maintained close ties to the NBA over the past season. "My position on Bob Woolf's staff was in the client relations area in terms of servicing, improving relationships, evaluating college talent, recruiting, and expanding the client base. It was a perfect marriage because I was still in the flow . . . still talking with the NBA coaches, general managers, and player personnel directors."

Zuffelato has been coaching basketball for 24 years with an intensity and enthusiasm that has moved him with success through high school and college coaching and into the NBA.

In three seasons with the Golden State Warriors Zuffelato's duties ranged from on the bench game coaching to on-court practice sessions. He served as the Warriors chief game scout, and worked special off-season camps and training programs with the well-known Pete Newell.

Prior to the NBA, Zuffelato spent ten seasons as a collegiate head coach during which he compiled a 160-121 record with Boston College (six seasons) and Marshall University (four seasons).

The Torrington, Connecticut native began his coaching career as the assistant freshman basketball coach at the University of Michigan in 1959. From there he held coaching positions at the high school level before joining the coaching staff at Hofstra University in 1966. After a two year stint at Hofstra, Zuffelato moved to his alma mater, Central Connecticut State, where he served as an assistant for one season.

In 1969 he accepted the assistant job at Boston College under Chuck Daly (now the Detroit Pistons' head coach) who took over the coaching reins when Bob Cousy departed. He got his initial crack at major college head coaching when he was named Boston College's floor boss in 1971. In September of 1979 Zuffelato took over as Marshall's head coach and guided the school's basketball fortunes for four seasons compiling a 71-41 mark.

Zuffelato and his wife, Donna, are the parents of three sons Scott, 25, Glenn, 21, and Greg, 17.

MONTH BY MONTH — BUCKS ARE CONSISTENT

The Milwaukee Bucks have played 50 consecutive months of winning basketball through April of 1987. The streak started in February of the 1979-80 campaign. The mark is second only to Boston's streak of 54, which coincides with Larry Bird arriving on the Celtics scene. Milwaukee's streak roughly coincides with Sidney Moncrief's arrival, as the Bucks have played just two sub .500 months with Sid on the squad (both in his rookie year of 1979-80).

THREE POINTERS

Since the inception of the three point shot back in the 1979-80 season the Bucks have canned 497-1,712 (.290%) vs. 462-1,856 (.249%) for their opponents. Either four former or current Bucks have had at least one four point point play though only two had one while wearing a Bucks uniform. Here's the list: Sam Smith recorded the first ever (Chicago vs. Milwaukee 10/21/79), Brian Winters had the second ever scored (Milwaukee vs. Philadelphia 11/6/79) and another (Milwaukee vs. Phoenix 2/7/82), Kevin Grevey had two (Washington vs. Philadelphia 11/3/81 and Washington vs. New York 3/21/82), and Paul Pressey (Milwaukee vs. Washington 12/1/84) had the most recent one by a Bucks player.

Frank Hamblen Assistant Coach

Frank Hamblen may be a new name for many Milwaukee Bucks fans but the team's new assistant coach has long since made a name for himself around the NBA.

In 18 years in the NBA, Hamblen has been associated with such established coaches as Pete Newell, Cotton Fitzsimmons, Jack McKinney, and Phil Johnson.

Hamblen played basketball in his home town of Terre Haute, Indiana, and continued his career with Syracuse University, where he was the team captain his senior year. Following graduation, Newell hired Hamblen as a scout for the San Diego Rockets in 1969. He followed the Rockets move to Houston in 1971 and stayed until joining the ABA Denver Rockets in 1972 as assistant coach and director of player personnel.

When Larry Brown became the team's coach, he retained Hamblen.

Hamblen visited Milwaukee as Brown's assistant in 1977 for the NBA All-Star game. Brown, then coach of the Denver Nuggets NBA franchise, had won the right to coach the Western All-Stars and Hamblen assisted him.

After spending part of the 1977-78 season as a freelance scout, Hamblen was hired by the Kansas City Kings. He stayed with the franchise through three different coaches — Fitzsimmons, McKinney, and Johnson — and moved with the team to Sacramento in 1985.

Then, Del Harris called.

"One of my responsibilities will be to serve as liaison between Del Harris and Mike (Dunleavy) and Mack (Calvin)," said Hamblen. All three were hired when Harris needed to rebuild the Bucks staff upon the departure of former coach Don Nelson.

Harris said when announcing Hamblen's hiring, "Frank will be the one who assimilates the information provided by Mike and Mack with regard to practices, film work, game plans, and on-the-bench coaching. From there he will filter that information and provide me with results."

Hamblen looks forward to his first season with a respected organization such as the Bucks.

"It's nice to be on the highest level there is," he said.

Hamblen will be spending a lot of time in front of TV cameras this season as a Bucks assistant, but he almost chose a career on the other side, as a TV cameraman. At Syracuse, he majored in broadcast communications and particularly enjoyed working the TV camera.

Maybe it was fate that involved Hamblen in basketball, considering he and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar share the same birthday of April 16, 1947. Hamblen said he realized he was a good basketball player, but definitely not a Kareem. One time while at Syracuse, he limited future NBA star guard Calvin Murphy to a mere 68 points.

SMITH AND JOHNSON MOST COMMON NAMES AMONG BUCKS

In the Bucks' 19-year history 130 players have appeared in a Milwaukee uniform and the surname that has appeared the most on the back of the Bucks' jersey is Smith. There have been six Smiths that have entered the Bucks' lockerroom; the most recent being Keith, who was a rookie in 1986-87. The other Smiths' were Don, Elmore, Greg, Robert and Sam. The next most popular surname is that of Johnson — namely Marques, George and Mickey. The other surnames to appear more than once in Bucks' annals are as follows — Cummings (Pat and Terry), Davis (Mickey and Charles), Henderson (Cedric and Jerome), Garrett (Dick and Rowland), Jones (Earl and Wali), and Williams (Ron and Sam). For information on when these players were in action for the Bucks see the teams' all-time roster.

BUCKS FRANCHISE RECORDS VICTORY #950

The Bucks had to wait until the 82nd and final game of 1986-87 to record the franchise's 950th career win and it came against the Detroit Pistons in the friendly confines of the Arena. The victory was also significant because it marked the Bucks' 50th win of the season, extending the club's envious streak of 50-win seasons to seven. Milwaukee reached 950 victories in only 19 years, making for an incredible average of 50 wins per season.

BEATING THE ODDS

When Keith Smith made the Bucks' final roster for 1986-87 it certainly was a rare occurrence of sorts. Smith became the first non-first round draft pick of the Bucks to see action in a regular season contest since 1978-79 when Otis Howard, a fourth-rounder from Austin Peay saw playing time.

THE LAND OF 10,000

Only four players have reached the 10,000 point barrier in the Bucks' history and the latest to join that elite group came in 1986-87 when Sidney Moncrief netted his 10,000th against New Jersey before a national TV audience on WTBS. The others to reach that figure in a Milwaukee uniform are Kareem Abdul Jabbar, Bob Dandridge and Marques Johnson.

Mack Calvin Assistant Coach

Mack Calvin has had a lifelong love affair with basketball. He's romanced the game on the high school, collegiate, and professional levels.

At each of those levels, he's learned something about the game and the people who play it. Now, he's applying that knowledge as a Milwaukee Bucks' assistant coach.

"You have to love the game to play and coach it," Calvin said. "I enjoyed coaching on the high school level because it gave me an opportunity to relate to the players about not only the game, but life.

"The collegiate level provided me with another experience, and the pros are my favorite. I welcomed this opportunity with the Bucks. As a former player, and a person who has coached on all levels, I think I can bring something to this team. I also see it as an opportunity to continue to learn."

Calvin joined the Bucks after one season as an assistant coach under Terry Holland at the University of Virginia. Before becoming a coach, he played 11 years in the ABA and NBA, averaging 16.1 points and 4.8 assists per game.

After starring at USC, Calvin joined the ABA. As a rookie with the Los Angeles Stars, Calvin was named to the ABA All-Rookie team. He went on to play for the Miami Floridians, Carolina Cougars, Denver Nuggets, and Virginia Squires in the ABA.

Calvin set ABA records for most free throws made in a single season and career. He led the ABA in assists in 1975, the year in which he also was picked the league's co-Player of the Year along with Julius Erving. He was selected to the ABA All Star team five times.

"The ABA had a lot of talent in it," Calvin now says. "It had a unique personality and style to it, and provided a lot of us with our starts."

While in the ABA, Calvin also got his start as a coach. He served as an interim coach of the Squires in 1975-76 and served as a coach in the California Summer Pro League.

After the ABA folded, Calvin played with the Los Angeles Lakers, Denver Nuggets, Utah Jazz, and Cleveland Cavaliers in the NBA. He was a player-assistant coach for the Cavs in 1980-81.

Before joining the Virginia coaching staff, Calvin coached at Cherry Creek High School in Englewood, Colorado. His team had a 24-1 record and was the second-leading scoring team in the country.

Calvin has been friends with Bucks' coach Del Harris since the ABA days and welcomed the chance to join the Bucks' staff when Harris was named head coach.

"I've always had a lot of respect for Del as a basketball coach and as a person," Calvin said. "I'm glad to see him back as a head coach and want to contribute as much as I can to the continued success of the Bucks as the franchise moves into a new era.

"With my background as a player, I think I can relate to the players today. My experience with the game on other levels also helps me bring a broader perspective to the job."

Calvin holds degrees from Long Beach Community College and USC. He worked towards his master's degree in counseling while coaching at Virginia.

Mack and his wife, Gale, have a teenage daughter, Christy, and are living in Bayside.

DON'T FOUL OUT

As may fans and media have recognized, NBA coaches, trainers, and front office personnel sported "Don't Foul Out" lapel pins during the 1987-88 season. The NBA is putting considerable effort and exposure behind this anti-drug campaign including television commercials, appearances by players and League wide public relations efforts. All of this to help make the program a high-visibility, extremely positive anti-drug statement. Fans wishing to obtain a lapel pin can order one for just $1 by sending a request and $1 to: Don't Foul Out, P.O. Box 5418, New York, NY 10185.

OCEANS WINS TWO WAMI AWARDS

Oceans, the Bucks house band led by saxophonist Warren Wiegatz, was the winner of two WAMI (Wisconsin Area Music Industry) Awards on October 27, 1986. Nearly 1,000 people attended the three hour blend of awards, comedy and live music topped off by the awards presentation at the Oriental Theatre. The Best Instrumentalist award went to Wiegatz and the Best Jazz Band or Artist award went to Oceans.

BUCKS WIN 10 STRAIGHT AT HOME TO START SEASON

The Bucks reeled off 10 straight home wins at the start of the 1984-85 season to set a franchise record for consecutive home wins at the start of a season. The all-time Club record for consecutive home wins is 17 (1/6/73 to 3/12/73) and over a two season span 25 (1/6/73 to 11/13/73 - 17 + 8).

Mike Dunleavy

Assistant Coach

During his nine-year playing career in the NBA, Mike Dunleavy frequently was referred to as a "coach on the court."

Now, he's getting a chance to be a coach from the bench, as an assistant to Milwaukee Bucks' Head Coach Del Harris.

"I'm excited about being involved in basketball again," said Dunleavy, who played with the Bucks in 1983-84 and '84-85. "You don't spend as much time with the game as I did and then just walk away from it without missing it."

"Del Harris was my coach and is my friend. I have a great deal of respect for him and for the Bucks' organization."

Dunleavy played for Harris with the Houston Rockets. He was a key ingredient in the 1980-81 team that advanced to the NBA finals before falling to the Boston Celtics.

At 6-3, without great natural quickness, Dunleavy was a smart player, who understood the intricacies of the game. He also worked on an outside shot that gave him a career shooting percentage of 46.8 percent.

"Both Mike and Mack Calvin, also a Bucks' assistant, were basically overachievers as players," said former Bucks' Director of Player Personnel Stu Inman. "It appears down through the years these are the types of players who make the best coaches — those that the game did not come easily to. And, yet through intelligence and hard work they had very productive pro careers."

Dunleavy's pro career began after he starred at South Carolina. The Philadelphia 76'ers drafted him in the sixth round of the 1976 draft.

Mike played the 1976 season and part of the 1977 season before he was waived by the Sixers. He then served as a player-coach for the Carolina Lightning of the now defunct All-American Basketball Alliance during the 1977-78 season.

The Rockets signed Dunleavy in March of 1978. He played four years in Houston. In 1982, he was signed as a free agent by the San Antonio Spurs.

After playing with the Spurs, Dunleavy entered the financial world on Wall Street, but the Bucks, besieged by injuries at guard at the time, beckoned late in 1983. Dunleavy played 17 regular season games and 15 playoff games for the Bucks in 1983-84.

Dunleavy averaged a career-high 11.2 points a contest in those games with the Bucks. He finished his career with an 8.1 scoring average and 1,713 assists, an average of 4 per game.

He was re-signed by the Bucks for the 1984-85 season, but after only 19 games injured his back when a plane, arriving in Baltimore, made a sudden lurch. The injury ended Dunleavy's playing career. He still has some back problems from the injury.

"My playing days ended earlier than I had hoped," Dunleavy said. "I probably would have liked to have been finishing up right about now, but I'm glad to still be in the game in some capacity."

After the back problem, Dunleavy went back to Wall Street as head of marketing and program training for Merrill Lynch. But, when Harris got the Bucks' job, Mike was headed back to basketball and Milwaukee.

"I was treated real well here as a player," Dunleavy said. "My family (wife Emily and three sons) and I like Milwaukee. The people are warm and friendly and have always supported the Bucks."

"The Bucks' organization is considered one of the best in the NBA. I know some of the players on the team very well and know the basic system. I think the Bucks still play good, tough defense, but we also are doing a few things differently on defense and offense."

The Dunleavy clan includes sons Michael (7), Baker (5), and James born last September. The family resides in Mequon.

Sam Schuler

Scout

Sam Schuler watched more than 160 basketball games all over the country last season.

The Bucks' collegiate talent scout admits he loved every minute of it.

"There's a lot of travel involved and a lot of nights in the gym, but I'm still very enthusiastic about it," Schuler said. "I'm the kind who will go to the NAIA in Kansas City and watch eight games in a single day. I love the game."

Schuler has a keen eye for basketball talent and understands the type of player the Bucks look for.

"We naturally look for physical talent, but we also are very attuned to intelligent players," Schuler said. "We feel rather strongly that one difference between the elite teams in the NBA and the also-rans might be intelligence."

Schuler noted the recent trends in the NBA to look to small colleges and foreign countries for talent.

"Certain trends develop and then change," he said. "We are aware of small college talent. With the Olympics in 1988, there is talk that the USSR and other countries will let some of their players play pro basketball after the games, so the NBA is looking at foreign players."

Before joining the Bucks, Schuler spent 20 years in the physical education and high school coaching fields. He was a physical education teacher for 17 years at Oak Creek High School and coached in the basketball program there for nine years.

Schuler is a native of Blanchardville, Wisconsin. He holds a physical education degree from the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse. He coached baseball at Wisconsin Heights for three seasons before moving to Oak Creek in 1968.

Jeff Snedeker Trainer & Traveling Secretary

Bucks' Trainer Jeff Snedeker did not enjoy watching key players like Paul Pressey and Sidney Moncrief miss as many games as they did last year.

So this year the Bucks have rededicated themselves to hitting the weight room and following a strenuous exercise program, tailor-made to the individual player.

"We give them all a pretty thorough physical at the beginning of the season," said the 51-year-old sports medicine expert. If they are prone to something, we design their workouts and even their game participation around that.

"For Sidney, we might want to limit his practice minutes," said Snedeker, as those valuable knees have begun to show some signs of wear after leaping above rims in the NBA for eight seasons. "Terry Cummings we want to monitor closely as well.

"There are no miracles" to keeping athletes healthy, Snedeker said. "On the other hand, Sidney was able to come back last year despite the knee problems. We do have the finest care available. We have good doctors, trainers, and therapists."

Snedeker duplicates many of those same techniques and efforts at "The Sports Clinic," with offices in Wauwatosa and Brown Deer. He said the same muscle stimulator that facilitated Moncrief's knee recuperation last year is at the clinic.

"We treat everyone from elderly women with back injuries to truck drivers; anybody who is physically active in their jobs," he said. "They are the same as pro athletes. They need to get back to work."

Snedeker knows much about the role of conditioning in all sports. Entering his 25th year as a trainer, he is perhaps the only active trainer with experience in three different professional sports — basketball, soccer, and football. And he has championship rings from his stints with the New York Jets, where he worked for 14 years, and the New York Cosmos, where he worked for two years before becoming the Bucks' trainer in June, 1979.

The Bucks' trainer has also had some input into the new training area that will be part of the Bradley Center next season. Besides up-to-date weight equipment, the facility will house a racquetball court and other physical training areas.

Of course, when injuries to players do occur, professional athletes in all sports have come to rely heavily on arthroscopic surgical techniques to speed their recovery.

"But people should remember it's not magic," he said of the surgical procedure. "It's still an invasive procedure in which you are sticking big, heavy needles into people's joints. But it is not as traumatic as surgery was 15 years ago. And guys in really good physical condition can even strengthen themselves prior to the procedure to speed recovery."

Snedeker has a Master of Science degree in athletic training from Indiana University. He has lectured on physical education at Barnard College in New York while also teaching graduate courses in sports medicine.

Last year, he was the Eastern Conference trainer for the NBA All-Star Game. He belongs to the Great Lakes Athletic Trainers Association, the American College of Medicine, and is the treasurer of the NBA Trainer's Association.

Snedeker also serves as the team's traveling secretary. He is responsible for the endless detail that is involved in an 82-game schedule, half of which is on the road. He handles all travel arrangements, including airlines, hotels, and buses.

He lives in Whitefish Bay with his wife, Joy, and has four daughters: Cheryl, Connie, Karen, and Cathy. In the off-season, they spend a lot of time in upstate New York.

Bill King II Director of Publicity

These are indeed interesting and exciting times for the entire Milwaukee Bucks organization, their fans, and the media that cover the club. Three prime examples that have fans virtually gushing with enthusiasm include: one, the complete reorganization of the basketball staff headed by Del Harris, two, a first-ever event such as the McDonald's Basketball Open now a warm memory, and finally the Bradley Center majestically rising to the north of MECCA. Events such as these provide everyone within the Bucks organization good reason to talk up and talk about Milwaukee's NBA franchise. That's where the Bucks' publicity office comes into play. From his office in the Milwaukee Arena Bill King II has been directing the flow of information concerning the Milwaukee Bucks to the media and fans alike since 1977.

King teams up with publicity assistant Jim Grayson to provide services in several areas. First the office is viewed as an information bank. Most visibly that information can be seen by most fans as it is being gathered courtside during Bucks home games. The Bucks were the first NBA team to implement a computerized scoring system to tabulate and distribute statistics. The numbers are provided to the media for their play-by-play descriptions courtside and their game scores in the daily newspapers, logged in the media guide and other official club publications for posterity, and used by the coaches who design game plans based on those facts and figures. In addition to the pre-season, regular season, playoff, NBA draft, and specialty media guides published by the club, King's office is also responsible for penning and editing the HOOP game program and the club's official news releases.

Another main function of King's office is to serve as a liaison between the team and NBA fans throughout Wisconsin and the country. The publicity office regularly schedules appearances by the Bucks' coaching staff, players, front office staff, and team mascot for charitable appearances, media talk shows and interviews, and commercial endeavors. The publicity office also serves to support the marketing and sales efforts of the Bucks front office staff.

King, 32, currently ranks third in seniority among his NBA peers. He entered the NBA as the youngest publicity director in professional sports in 1977. He is a past Vice President and Secretary of the NBA Public Relations Directors Association. That group twice cited King with an honorable mention award as the top P.R. Director in the NBA's Eastern Conference. The award is voted upon by a select group of NBA writers and broadcasters and sponsored by the Phillips Petroleum Corporation.

A native of Neptune City, New Jersey, King is a graduate of Neptune High School where he was involved in a host of extracurricular activities. He went on to become the youngest full-time Sports Information Director in the nation at Morris Harvey College (now the University of Charleston), in Charleston, West Virginia. While serving as the Morris Harvey Sports Information Director, King's publications received numerous national awards from Co-SIDA, the College Sports Information Directors of America. King was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities while at Morris Harvey, an award he also received on the high school level.

King joined the Bucks after serving a brief stint as the Assistant Promotions Director at Tulane University in New Orleans and eight years as publicist and statistician for the Jersey Shore Summer Basketball League, a loop that features NBA players.

Bill, his wife Shelley, and their nine month old daughter Bentley live on Lac La Belle in Oconomowoc. He is an avid jet skier and enjoys recreational basketball.

LIMITED P.T.

When NBA players refer to "P.T." they're talking about playing time. These players have seen the "least" amount of action while in a Bucks uniform: Delmer Beshore (one minute in one game), Linton Townes (two minutes in two games), Mark West (six minutes in one game), Brad Holland (nine minutes in one game), Bob Rule (11 minutes in one game), and Cedric Henderson (six minutes in two games).

LOWEST DRAFT PICK TO PLAY FOR BUCKS

Mickey Davis was the Bucks seventh round draft pick out of Duquesne in 1972. That makes him the lowest Bucks draft choice to play for Milwaukee. The Bucks have had at least three players see action that were never drafted. They are Delmer Beshore, Charlie Criss and Jerome Henderson.

LONG & SHORT OF IT

Randy Breuer at 7'3" is the tallest player to don a Bucks uniform while Charlie Criss at 5'8" is the shortest. Geff Crompton at 290 lbs. is the heaviest while Lloyd Walton at 160 lbs. is the lightest. The Bucks all-time roster lists seven players at 7' or taller and three players at under 6'.

Bea Westfahl Ticket and Office Manager

Making sure 11,052 people all end up in the right seats for the right game isn't an easy task.

But, Bea Westfahl is celebrating her 20th anniversary of doing so this season. The Bucks' ticket and office manager has earned the reputation of running one of the most efficient offices in the NBA.

"I love my job, so the work is more fun for me than anything," Bea said. "I'm looking forward to my 20th season."

Mrs. Westfahl and her staff process the mail, handle over-the-counter and group sales and provide other customer services to the Bucks' season ticket holders.

Over the years, Bea has worked closely with season ticket holders in the selection of their seats. She also coordinates the Bucks' link with the computerized Ticketron outlets.

Next season, Mrs. Westfahl and her staff will have more tickets to handle, as the Bucks move to the 18,400 seat Bradley Center.

"It will be a challenge working with season subscribers and ticket buyers in the Bradley Center," Bea said.

Mrs. Westfahl joined the Bucks' staff near the end of the 1968 season, after nine years as head of concessions and grandstand operations for the Wisconsin State Fair.

She is a charter member and serves on the Board of Directors of Box Office Management International (BOMI), a "think-tank" for those working in the ticket industry.

Comprised of arenas, stadiums, theaters, universities, coliseums and concert halls, BOMI deals with advance management techniques, exchange ideas, and the latest technological advances in ticket sales.

Born in Wauwatosa, Mrs. Westfahl was raised in West Allis and resides most of the year in Milwaukee. During summers, she and her husband, Don, a retired Milwaukee fireman, live on Tichigan Lake. Bea commutes from their lake home to the Bucks' office.

A former music teacher, Mrs. Westfahl taught piano and voice. She still loves music and plays the piano when time permits.

Mrs. Westfahl and her husband have three sons and two grandsons.

Chuck Reupert Controller

The Milwaukee Bucks have been very fortunate to have Chuck Reupert in charge of the numbers game for the past sixteen seasons. Chuck has been keeping an eye on the Bucks finances as controller during three different ownerships in his tenure.

When Chuck is not overseeing financial matters, you can usually find him on or around the auto race track. Chuck has been racing around the country for 25 years and is a former Class D Midwest Champion.

Chuck attended Milwaukee Tech High School, the University of Wisconsin and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. He served as an infantry leader in Korea and was a third officer in the U.S. Maritime Service in World War II.

Chuck has twin sons, Mike and Mark, who both live in the Milwaukee area. Chuck and his wife, Susie, live in Milwaukee with their 14 year old son, Sean.

BUCKS LOSING STREAKS

● The last time the Bucks lost five games in a row overall was during the 1980-81 season from March 6 through the 12th. ● The last time the Bucks lost six games in a row overall was during the 1979-80 season from December 5 through the 14th. The club also dropped six in a row in the 1978-79 season from January 28 to February 8. ● In club history the highest number of consecutive losses at home is four and that occurred in five separate seasons: 1979-80 (11/27-12/11), 1977-78 (twice), 1976-77, 1974-75, and 1968-69. ● In club history the highest number of consecutive losses overall is 11 and that occurred during the 1974-75 season from Oct. 25 to Nov. 16.

Steve Harms Sales Coordinator

The 1987-88 Milwaukee Bucks ... yeah, that's the ticket!

At least it seems that way to Steve Harms, Bucks' sales coordinator. Season ticket sales will probably reach an all-time high this year for several reasons, all of which bring a smile to the face of the 27-year-old Brookfield native.

"Promotions help, but the key is the team's play," said Harms. "The ticket sales were at a record setting pace last year and this year should be above that."

Of the Milwaukee home tilts in 1986-87, all but five of 41 were sold out. During the summer and early fall, as the season neared, the phone was ringing off the hook.

Of course, Harms admits he has an influential salesman helping him this year — the Bradley Center.

"Probably one of the major factors for season ticket sales this year is the fans' ability to secure a good seat at the Bradley Center, scheduled to open next season," said Harms. Those who become season ticket holders this year will have priority at the state-of-the-art facility.

It may be more difficult to fill the Bradley Center, with almost double the seating of the 11,052 capacity at the Milwaukee Arena, but Harms is also looking forward to that challenge. From 1983-85 he was one of the top salespersons in the Detroit Pistons organization, with its cavernous Silverdome.

There will be challenges with the arrival of the Bradley Center but those challenges breed opportunities. Harms expects an even more aggressive marketing and promotion strategy than before.

"One area that we're going to be concentrating on is the group outing market," said Harms. "That might consist of selling even more blocks of tickets to organizations and businesses like restaurants and taverns."

Harms is no stranger to innovation. He helped implement a partial season ticket plan when he came to Milwaukee. It has been met with an overwhelmingly positive response by those who cannot afford the expense or time of full season tickets but do want some reserved seating.

During the summer Harms works with a sales staff of two to help him in his efforts to bring new customers together with some of the finest basketball in the world. Harms is also the Bucks' outside sales contact, selling tickets to corporations, businesses, and professionals throughout the Milwaukee area and the entire state.

Among his other duties are selling advertising signage for inside the Arena, scheduling half-time entertainment, and planning major group events at the Bucks games, such as Scout night.

There are also pre-game activities like the annual statewide pom-pom and cheerleader competition for high school students.

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse, Harms holds a degree in recreational administration. He lives in Brookfield with his wife, Lori, who is a research technologist at the Medical College of Wisconsin.

He also belongs to the Sales and Marketing Executives of Milwaukee and the Milwaukee Industrial and Recreational Council.

Nancy Williams Executive Secretary

It was 2½ years ago that Nancy Williams learned there was something special about Milwaukee.

She was making her first visit to the city to help her brother Tom in what proved to be a losing campaign for the Wisconsin State Assembly. While here, she and Tom spoke of the city. He suggested she try and find work here.

She heeded that advice and sent the Milwaukee Bucks a resume asking about employment possibilities. The Bucks wrote back, saying they appreciated her interest and would keep her resume on file.

"Nothing unusual," Williams says now. "After I got the letter, I never even thought about it."

So Williams headed back to Lincoln, Nebraska where she had worked almost ten years in the basketball office for the University of Nebraska.

Eventually, after 12 years of service to head coaches Joe Cipriano, Moe Iba and Danny Nee, Williams left for a position in private business — with mixed results.

"I learned I wasn't happy doing something other than basketball," the engaging 35 year old said.

Then came the break she was looking for. The Bucks' Vice President of Business Operations, John Steinmiller, called, wondering if she would be interested in coming to Milwaukee for an interview regarding the position of executive secretary to Steinmiller and coach Del Harris.

"It's just weird," she recalls now with a laugh. "You know how you get those letters that say they'll keep your resume on file? Obviously, the Bucks meant what they said in that letter."

Now Williams is taking on the duties of making sure the basketball and business offices of the Bucks are running as smoothly as a finely tuned fast break.

"It really is exciting," she said, "because every day there is something new for me to deal with. It's falling in line with some of my old duties because I'm so used to working for members of an athletic department and dealing with the pressure they feel."

There are some changes in her routine, that's for sure. No longer is she organizing mailings to 17 year olds who might prove to be the player who insures Nebraska's basketball fortunes. She is getting more involved on the business end, assisting Steinmiller with marketing and administration responsibilities.

Nancy is a native of Topeka, Kansas and now resides in Milwaukee.

Fr. Gene Jakubek, S.J. Chaplain

For over a decade, Fr. Gene Jakubek has been there, ready to offer spiritual and psychological help to the Milwaukee Bucks when it's needed.

Fr. Gene began as the team chaplain in 1976. He's still "on the job," although he says his work with the Bucks is more a labor of love.

"Sports are the one diversion I have from my other activities," Fr. Gene said. "I don't take vacations, so going to the games is my relaxation. I enjoy my work with the Bucks a great deal."

Fr. Gene regularly puts in 19-hour days. His project HELP — Happiness for the Elderly, Lonely, and Poor — reaches 187,000 people, up from 156,000 a year ago.

More than 2,400 volunteers work through HELP to feed, clothe, and entertain the city's less fortunate.

"The program is sustained by $10 and $20 donations from people all over the area and country," Fr. Gene said.

Fr. Gene's television program — "The Answer Is Love" — has originated from Milwaukee for 20 years and reaches millions. He also spreads God's word to millions more on the Eternal Word TV Network (EWTN), out of Birmingham, Alabama. "I've been using TV to spread the word for about 35 years," Fr. Gene said.

Fr. Gene hopes to start a sports program for EWTN in the future.

In addition to HELP, his TV work, and the Bucks, Fr. Gene gives retreats and talks across the country and does a great deal of marriage counseling.

"It makes for very full days, but it's a happy life," Fr. Gene said.

Tom Hoffer Equipment Manager

Though his title is equipment manager, Tom Hoffer is spending less time in the lockerroom and more in the front office.

The 30-year-old Hoffer has been with the Milwaukee Bucks since the 1974-75 season when he started in the organization as a ball boy. Since that time he has moved into the role of equipment manager, a position that now involves him in the promotional aspect of the Bucks' operation.

"My duties have become less involved with the team and more into the front office type of duties," Hoffer said. "I'm handling the special promotions, the video taping of the games, and other things you wouldn't think an equipment manager would do."

Hoffer oversees a team of eight ball boys, two video assistants (who video tape all of the home games) and the Bucks' mascot, Bango.

The Bucks recently appointed Harold Lewis to supervise the ball boys, allowing Hoffer the time to work in other areas.

The impending move into the Bradley Center will offer the hard working Hoffer a much better opportunity to work in his new areas.

"There will be so many more aspects and challenges for the whole front office staff in the Bradley Center," he said. "We will be able to offer a lot of on-site promotions and offer our fans and sponsors a lot more."

Hoffer's work doesn't stop when the season ends, as he works with the basketball staff at the Bucks' rookie camp and other team-related activities. The energetic Hoffer also directs the Bucks' annual presence at Summerfest.

Throughout his time with the Bucks, Hoffer knows he has been in a special situation.

"I've been able to work with great people and I have been able to wear a lot of different hats," he said. "This is an organization of limited staff and resources, but we have been able to keep putting a quality team on the basketball court by doing things without the fat."

"If I would have been with a more established organization, I might not have been able to advance like I have."

Hoffer's hobbies include golf, woodworking and recreational basketball.

The title of equipment manager encompasses many different duties for Hoffer, who knows his job entails more than meets the eye.

"I'm doing a little more supervising now and a little less folding towels," he said.

Jim Irwin

Voice of the Bucks

Jim Irwin has one task in mind when broadcasting a Milwaukee Bucks game.

"My goal is to convey the excitement of the game to the fans," Irwin said. "If I do that they will get the feeling that the game is exciting. If I'm down or upset, the fans won't enjoy the game."

For seven seasons, Irwin has been describing Bucks games to their fans and it is something he thoroughly enjoys.

Irwin is well-known as a radio personality-sportscaster on WTMJ radio, handling the early morning sports report from 5:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. while delivering a thought provoking daily opinion piece entitled "Viewpoint" after his sportscasts.

Along with the broadcasting of the Bucks games, Irwin also handles play-by-play for the University of Wisconsin — Madison football team and Green Bay Packer games for WTMJ radio.

At times during the fall, his various duties overlap, making for some very hectic weekends for Irwin.

"I love to travel, so that makes this job a lot easier," Irwin said. "I know my way around most of the major airports in the country. But broadcasting the Bucks games is so enjoyable, I don't mind the travel hassles."

Before coming to Wisconsin in 1964 to join a Green Bay station which handled the Packer games, Irwin received his degree from the University of Missouri. In 1969, he joined WTMJ as a color man with Ted Moore for Wisconsin football broadcasts. Eventually, Irwin took over the play-by-play slot when Moore left the following year.

Despite a change in the Bucks' head coach position for the first time in 11 years, Irwin sees big things from the Bucks this year.

"I think this season will be a continuation of the Bucks' excellence," he said. "Nellie (Don Nelson) was a great coach and the things he taught his team will still exist. Then you add all of the extra knowledge that Del Harris brings to the team and I think the product will be as good or better."

Irwin's wife, Gloria, is also involved in communications as a producer for public television. The couple live in Whitefish Bay and have a daughter, Anne and son, Jay.

The Bucks' impending move into the Bradley Center is something that excites Irwin as he looks toward the future.

"I like the Milwaukee Arena because of its coziness, but the Bradley Center will offer fans much better sight lines and seating," he said. "This will be a major step forward for this city."

Irwin, who recently signed a new three-year contract, sees himself continuing his present job for quite awhile.

"I'm a relatively young man in the broadcasting business," he said. "I know I'm going to have to cut back on some of my duties someday. But, I'm having too much fun to worry about that now."

That's good news for Bucks fans.

Jon McGlocklin

Color Analyst

In his job as a TV and radio analyst, Jon McGlocklin tries to paint a picture in the fan's mind.

"I want the fan to have a feeling of what it's like being on a three-on-two fastbreak with Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar) standing between you and the basket," McGlocklin said.

After 12 seasons in the NBA as a player and the past 11 seasons behind the mike, McGlocklin joined new TV announcer Jim Paschke for the first time last season. He has worked with Jim Irwin on the WTMJ radio home games for eleven years.

"Things went really well," McGlocklin said. "Both are play-by-play men who work hard and prepare for every game."

McGlocklin sees his job as multi-faceted.

"I try to break down the game by informing people of what is going on and why certain things happen during a game," he said. "I try to point out things that the novice fan would not notice or understand."

This season, the first under new head coach Del Harris, will likely be a year of adjustment for the Bucks, McGlocklin said.

"Del was already here so that should make the transition easier," he said. "This is a good basketball team that is faced with a challenge. The fans need to give Del time to show what he can do."

Life during the season is grueling for McGlocklin — with 41 home radio games and 30 television games, plus the playoffs; that schedule keeps "Johnny Mac" busy from October to June.

Adding to his already hectic schedule, McGlocklin serves as vice-president of the Bando-McGlocklin Capital Investment Co. Inc., a partnership operated with former Milwaukee Brewer Sal Bando. The pair also operate another business, Bishops Woods I, a real estate trust.

The heavy work load seems to have taken its toll on McGlocklin as he looks towards the future.

"I wouldn't want to walk away from my job," he said. "But I might have to modify my schedule. This past season, I did 71 regular season games, plus the playoffs, and several national cablecasts on WTBS.

"My job is a challenge. It's like playing in the NBA. You are on the spot and you have to perform live. But after a while the travel and the time takes a toll on your life."

McGlocklin's work load also includes his well-known association with the Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer (MAACC) Fund, which was formed with him as president when he retired from basketball in 1976.

McGlocklin, who resides in Greendale with his wife Pam, son Shannon and daughter Meghan participates in numerous charities and receives many requests to speak. He had the rare honor of introducing President Ronald Reagan when the chief executive visited Port Washington this summer.

Though McGlocklin has several commitments vying for his time, Bucks' fans can be assured that when they tune into the Bucks on WVTU-Channel 18 or WTMJ Radio, they will hear the familiar voice of "Johnny Mac."

McGLOCKLINS RECEIVE ALVERNO AWARD

In recognition of their volunteer efforts to fight childhood cancer, Jon and Pamela McGlocklin were presented with Alverno College's 1986 Telesis Award November 13, 1986. The award is Alverno's highest recognition for community service. McGlocklin, an All-Star guard with the Milwaukee Bucks from 1968 to 1976, helped found and is president of the MAACC Fund (Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer) in 1976. The fund has contributed more than $1.8 million in the cancer fight. Pamela McGlocklin helped found Women for MAACC in 1982. It has raised nearly $150,000.

Jim Paschke TV Announcer

Though it is one year and more than 40 televised games later, Jim Paschke still feels the same way.

"You never know where you'll find yourself, but if this is the last job I ever have, I wouldn't mind."

That was Paschke's reaction after being named the WVTU-Channel 18 Milwaukee Bucks and Brewers play-by-play announcer in August of 1986. It was still Paschke's feeling after one year on the job.

"This is the perfect job and I couldn't be happier," the 36-year-old Paschke said during one of his few free moments. "I enjoy the travel, the thrill that surrounds the games, and the challenge of broadcasting the ball games. I'm having such a great time; I hope I don't wake up one day and find out I can't do this anymore."

Before accepting his new job, Paschke was a well-known face to Milwaukee sports fans as a sports reporter and sports director at WITI-TV 6 for six years. He came to Milwaukee after three years as sports director at Channel 15 in Madison. Paschke's first season behind the mike was a learning experience.

"This is a job that requires you to learn everyday," he said. "I believe that a sportscaster's job is to be the link between the fan and the game."

"My job is to smooth that link. We need to make the fans aware of details that they might overlook. We need to make the game more exciting."

One of the bonuses of the job according to Paschke, is working with Bucks' long-time color analyst Jon McGlocklin.

Most fans think Paschke's work day consists of the three hours he spends broadcasting the game. But, his preparation for a game begins days or weeks before. He can regularly be found at all Bucks practices starting during training camp and continuing throughout the season.

"I try to learn the offense and the defense and as much about the team as possible," he said. "I've tried to turn this into a full-time job."

Paschke and his wife Debbie live in Grafton. Debbie is the weekend news anchor on WITI-TV 6.

With Del Harris taking over the job as head coach this year, Paschke sees this season as a transition year for the Bucks.

"Del is the perfect coach for this situation because of his coaching skills and the way he deals with the players," he said. "It is good for the franchise that Harris was picked, but the other teams in the division have gotten stronger. This team will have to work harder to achieve the same level that Bucks' fans are used to."

If Harris is the perfect man for the Bucks, it seems Paschke has fit into the same role as the man to tell Channel 18 viewers about those games.

'86-'87 Regular Season: Made a strong bid for the NBA FT% title but fell short — Craig had only 16 misses on the season and nailed a career high .891% ... if Craig would have captured the FT crown, it would have been the first time a player would win back-to-back titles in different categories since Magic Johnson took the steals crown in 1981-82 and followed with the assist title in 1982-83 ... became the fifth player in League history to reach 200 three pointers ... did so in game #47 and did it in style by nailing 4-4 from bonus range in that game ... ranks fourth in NBA history in three pointers made with 235 (behind Larry Bird, Darrell Griffith and Michael Cooper) and fifth in three pointers attempted with 661 (trails Bird, Griffith, Cooper and Michael Evans). STARTER OR SUB? — DID BOTH WELL — Was a starter thru the first half of the season but went to the bench with the addition of Jonn Lucas and the return to good health of Paul Pressey and Sidney Moncrief ... as a member of the starting five recorded numbers of 11.5 ppg, 3.3 apg and .445 FG% in 30.9 minutes of playing time ... beginning with game #53 (2/14/87) moved into a reserve role for the final 29 contests — in 35 outings off the bench had lower marks (10.1 ppg and 2.8 apg) than as a starter but that was mostly due to less action; dropped to 23.4 mpg ... did improve his shooting as a sub shooting at a .487% clip from the floor. ERRATIC MARKSMANSHIP — Had an excellent season from the FT line as indicated but was subpar from the field and from beyond the three point arc ... went to the charity stripe at least once in 52 games and in those was perfect 38 times while missing more than one attempt in only two contests ... meanwhile finished at .462% from the floor (compared to .494% in his first two seasons with MKE) and topped .500% just 33 times in 78 outings ... broke his own team standards in the process of setting career bests in bonus shots made and attempted (85-228) with a mark of .373% — won the League three point title two years ago at .451% ... set a team record for three pointers made in a game with five against N.J. 11/7 ... best stretch of season from three point land came early on as Craig connected on 15-23 (.652%) in the opening six games ... other hot streak came in six game span in April by netting 11-19 (.579%) ... hit five from beyond 23'9" once in a game, while connecting on four thrice, three on six occasions, and two 14 times. OTHER SEASON HIGHLIGHTS — Led the Bucks in scoring twice, assists five times and steals on 10 occasions ... scored in double figures the first nine games of the season and finished the year with 43 double digit outings — Bucks were 31-12 in those games ... had a season high 27 points on 3/24/87 vs. the Knicks and topped the 20 point mark three times ... in 78 outings had marks of 10.8 ppg (ties career high) and 3.1 apg in 27.5 mpg ... missed only four games during the season due to injury or illness ... recorded career point number 3,000 in game #6 vs. the Nets and assist 1,000 came shortly after in game #10.

1987 Playoffs: Almost singlehandedly put an end to the Sixers' season in the fifth and deciding game of the opening round with an offensive outburst that resulted in 14 points over a span of just 5:32 in the fourth period breaking open a close game (made 6-8 FG's including 2-2 three pointers) ... was in double figures four times in 12 post season tilts and finished with a 7.9 ppg mark ... shot extremely well with figures of .519% from the field and .909% from the FT line ... had better numbers in the Philly series with 9.4 ppg on .541 FG% — vs. Boston averaged 6.9 ppg on .500% FG mark ... contributed 1.8 rpg and 1.7 apg.

Pre-Bucks: Was the Clippers third round draft pick (48th overall) in the 1982 collegiate draft ... was named to Basketball Digest's Second Team All-Rookie squad in 1982-83 ... started 48 of 76 games played in his rookie campaign, averaging just under 10 points per game ... was second on the club in assists and played more minutes (2,022) than all but three other players ... scored a then career high 24 points vs. Utah January 16, 1983 ... passed for a career high tying 12 assists vs. Golden State December 7, 1982 ... led the Clippers in three point field goals made with 20, shooting 20-90 for a .222%.

College: Attended Long Beach State University where he was a four year starter ... had a fine senior season at Long Beach, scoring 17.5 ppg and leading the club in steals with 56 ... was a First Team All-PCAA selection his senior season and named PCAA Player of the Week twice in 1981-82 ... holds the 49ers career assist mark with 437 . . . his collegiate high for points in a game was 31 against Utah State in his senior season.

Personal: Craig and his wife Carlita have two sons; 3½ year old Jibril and 2 year old Jamaal . . . began a "Save the Youth" campaign last season targeted at the youth of Milwaukee's inner city to bring the community closer together and stress the importance of a drug free society and the value of an education . . . was an honors student at Long Beach State where he graduated with a degree in Social Studies . . . conducted basketball clinics in his home town of Park Forest, Illinois this past summer.

'86-'87 Regular Season: Added leadership, stability and some magical moments to the Bucks following his signing for the balance of the season on 1/17/87... filled in more than admirably at point guard when Paul Pressey was out with a dislocated right ring finger and when Pressey came back afforded MKE the luxury of two of the League's better floor generals... his importance was seen immediately as he rallied the Bucks to a 100-92 victory over Atlanta in his first outing with the Bucks — tallied 12 points and had seven feeds in 20 minutes and during his stint MKE outscored the Hawks 48-24 (that occurred just one day after his signing and with the assistance of only one practice with MKE)... hadn't played organized basketball for 10 months prior to signing with the Bucks yet he almost immediately played 30 minutes per game with no sign of sluggishness. AN IMPACT PLAYER — Former coach Don Nelson labeled Lucas one of the top five point guards in the NBA and he went out and proved just that... was third on the team in scoring with 17.5 points per outing and scored in double digits in all but two games... appeared in MKE's final 43 contests... also contributed 6.7 apg, 2.9 rpg and 1.7 spg... played more than 20 minutes in all 43 of his outings averaging 31.6 minutes per contest... led the Bucks in assists on 26 occasions and hit double digit feeds seven times — in those contests MKE was 6-1... had fewer than five assists only seven times... also paced the club in steals 12 times and scoring on nine occasions... season bests were as follows; 29 points vs. former Houston mates 2/14, 14 feeds vs. Chicago 2/5, and seven steals vs. the Knicks 2/11... topped 20 point barrier 15 times. HOT OR COLD? — Was an erratic shooter in his 43 appearances... bettered .500% from the field only 13 times and fell below the .400% mark in 21 games... when above the .500% mark shot a sizzling .620% from the floor but when below that number was a poor .377%... for the season hit a respectable .457% from the floor... best shooting games of the year came vs. the Rockets 2/14 (13-15 FG's) and against the Pacers 3/7 (11-13 FG's)... slumped towards the end of the season hitting 98-235 (.417%) from game #64 to #80... started slow from the charity stripe (in first 11 games was just 33-48; .688%) but that wasn't the norm — finished the season at a decent .787% by canning 104-126 (.825%) in the last 32 games... was just the opposite from three point range canning 13 of his first 31 bonus shots for .419% before cooling off the remainder to the season and finishing at a still respectable .365%. SOME MIGHTY MILESTONES — Moved into elite company last year by passing for 290 assists — pushed his career total to 5,564 feeds placing him among the top 10 assist men of all-time... climbed past Dave Bing and Kevin Porter on the top 10 list but was topped by Magic Johnson and now stands in the 10th spot... is third in NBA assists among active players... also reached some other lofty numbers with his 8,500th career point and 700th career game during the 1986-87 campaign.

1987 Playoffs: Set a career playoff high in game #3 of the conference semifinals with the Celtics by scorning the nets for 30 points on 12-18 FG's and 4-4 three pointers... averaged 15.6 ppg in 12 appearances — in first round vs. Sixers chipped in 13.8 ppg (high was 17 points in fifth and deciding game) and then improved that to 16.9 ppg against Boston... led the club in scoring once and assists twice in the second season... averaged 5.2 apg and 2.1 rpg in addition to 15.6 ppg — averaged 30.2 minutes of action... shot a respectable .813% from the free throw line while also recording marks of .453% from the field and .333% from three point land (12-36).

Pro Career: Has had seven different stops with five NBA teams in his eleven year career... the Houston Rockets acquired the top pick in the 1976 draft, with which they selected Lucas, by trading Joe Meriweather and Gus Bailey for Dwight Jones and Atlanta's first round draft pick... Lucas started 54 games as a rookie averaging 5.6 assists (10th in the NBA) and 11.1 points as the Rockets posted the best mark in club history (49-33)... he was named to the First Team All-Rookie squad and finished second to Buffalo's Adrian Dantley in Rookie of the Year voting... during his second year in the NBA with the Rockets, Lucas set a club record with 768 assists, second in the League to Keven Porter of New Jersey... on September 5, 1978 Lucas' contract was awarded to the Golden State Warriors along with $100,000 as compensation for the Rockets signing Rick Barry... Lucas enjoyed his best overall season in the NBA during the 1978-79 campaign with the Warriors scoring 16.1 points per game and averaging 9.3 assists... after three years with the Warriors Lucas was traded to the Washington Bullets on October 19, 1981 for second round picks in 1982 and 1984... Washington placed him on waivers January 25, 1983 and he was signed later that year on August 29 by the Cleveland Cavaliers as a free agent only to be waived September 21 and signed by San Antonio as a free agent on December 4, 1983 ... with San Antonio in 63 games during the 1983-84 season Lucas became just one of 18 players (at that time) in League history to average double digit assists (10.7), fourth in the NBA ... that season Lucas also set the NBA record for assists in a quarter with 14 (vs. Denver 4/15/84) and had a League season high 24 assists in that game ... he played the early portion of the 1983-84 season with the Lancaster entry of the Continental Basketball Association ... the NBA journey continued when San Antonio traded him with a 1983 third round draft choice to the Houston Rockets for James Bailey and a 1983 second round draft pick and cash on October 4, 1984 ... he was waived by Houston December 10 of that year only to be resigned by the Rockets February 19, 1985 ... he ultimately was waived by Houston March 14, 1986 and was out of the League until the Bucks signed him to a contract for the balance of the 1986-87 season on January 17, 1987.

College: Consensus All-American both his junior and senior years at the University of Maryland in basketball and tennis ... all-time point leader for the Terrapins having totaled 2,015 points for an 18.3 average ... he led the squad to a 92-23 record in four seasons under coach Lefty Driesell, winning one Atlantic Coast Conference title and two NCAA berths ... named to The Sporting News All-America First Team, 1975 and 1976 and the Second Team in 1974.

Personal: In addition to his career as a professional basketball player, Lucas also played professional team tennis with the Golden Gaters in 1977 and the New Orleans Nets in 1978 ... parents, John and Blondola Lucas, were both high school principals in Durham, North Carolina ... John and his wife Debbie have two children; daughter Tarvia, 7, and son John 6 ... has tested positive for drug use twice under the current drug agreement between the NBA and the NBA Players Association — both times he was placed on waivers by the Houston Rockets, most recently March 12, 1986 after starting the first 65 games of the 1985-86 season and averaging 15.5 points and 8.8 assists ... while undergoing drug rehabilitation himself at Houston International Hospital, Lucas has headed several programs to help others ... one such program is the STAND Program (Students Taking Action Not Drugs) which promoted an alcohol and drug free lifestyle ... he works with schools, church, and community groups promoting the STAND Program ... also administers the John Lucas Fitness program for persons recovering from drug rehabilitation at seven Houston area hospitals in conjunction with the Hospital Corporation of America.

'86-'87 Regular Season: For the second straight season Mo was hampered by knee problems which severely altered his mobility... despite the injured knees was able to answer the call in 62 games for the season... was a candidate for the injured list throughout the season but remained active and missed only three games due to injury or illness — none were due to knee problems as two could be attributed to the flu and one to a strained hamstring... troublesome knees limited Mo to 45 games during the 1985-86 campaign... averaged 11.6 mpg in 1985-86 and that dropped slightly in 1986-87 to 10.1 mpg — has now spent four seasons with MKE and in his first two averaged 16.5 minutes of PT while in the last two that was dropped to 10.0 mpg. SEASON HIGHLIGHTS — Finished the season with marks of 2.4 ppg and 2.2 rpg down from 1985-86 numbers of 3.2 ppg and 3.1 rpg (for career entered the 1986-87 season with 4.7 points and 3.8 caroms per outing)... led the Bucks in rebounding once and in steals three times... reached double digits in points and rebounds once during the season and both occurred in the 3/24 contest vs. New York — netted 11 points and gathered 10 rebounds vs. the Knicks... topped the 20 minute mark four times including a season high 23 minute stint vs. the Nets in game #5... had 17 DNP-CD's during the season... was most inactive during 14 game stretch from 2/11/87 to 3/11/87 — in that period had eight DNP-CD's and in other six averaged just 3.3 mpg... best play of the year came late in the season as Mo tallied 5.6 ppg and grabbed 3.8 rpg (in 12.8 mpg) in five game span from contest #68 to 72... had his worst shooting season since rookie year at a subpar .403% and topped .500% from the floor only 24 times in 62 appearances... was a respectable .719% from the charity stripe... tallied his 2,000th career point in game #3 — also topped 1,700 rebounds and 400 assists for his career during the 1986-87 campaign.

1987 Playoffs: Turned in a typical solid performance in the playoffs and actually became the first center off the bench for most of the conference semifinals vs. Boston... averaged 2.6 ppg and 2.3 rpg in the seven game series with Boston in 8.9 mpg — shot .556% from the floor... highlight of the post season came in game #4 vs. Boston when Mo calmly canned two pressure-packed free throws with only four seconds remaining to send the game into overtime (the Bucks eventually lost in double overtime 138-137)... in 12 outings his numbers read 2.3 ppg and 2.4 rpg in 8.9 mpg... highs for the playoffs were six points (5/10/87) vs. Boston and five rebounds (4/29/87) vs. Philadelphia.

College: Finished his career at the University of Kansas as the fifth leading rebounder of all-time... during his senior year he averaged 14.1 points per game as the Jayhawks finished second to Oklahoma in the Big Eight.

Personal: Paul and his wife Linda are the parents of two sons; two year old Michael and infant Brian... the family resides in Mequon year round... Paul is an avid golfer who has an eight handicap... involved in several charitable organizations and their fund raising efforts including the MACC Fund, Milwaukee Children's Hospital, and Special Olympics... has his degree in Journalism from Kansas... Paul's father Cass Mokeski played basketball at the University of Detroit and Gonzaga.

'86-'87 Regular Season: The two-time NBA Defensive Player of the Year gave the League's top offensive threats a breather last season but it certainly wasn't planned... Sid was sidelined by knee problems for the major portion of the 1986-87 campaign... highlight of an otherwise down year came vs. New Jersey on 2/16/87 when Sid scored his 10,000th NBA point before a national television audience on WTBS... appeared in a career low 39 contests — entering the 1986-87 season was absent from the lineup just 36 times in his first seven seasons in the NBA while last year missed the call in 43 games... patellar tendinitis in the right knee sidelined Sid for 23 consecutive games and a stretch of 39 of 43 contests... late in the season sore knees kept him inactive for another four tilts. SEASON CAPSULE — Started the opening nine games of the season with marks of 15.9 ppg, 4.4 rpg and 4.0 apg in 32.6 minutes of PT... from 11/15/86 to 2/13/87 played in only four games... returned vs. the Rockets 2/14 and scored four points in 17 minutes... wasn't a key offensive factor after the long layoff — after returning appeared in 17 straight games with averages of 8.7 ppg, 2.6 rpg and 2.8 apg in 22.1 mpg... was held to single figures 11 times in that 17 game stretch and twice was shutout (matching his total of two scoreless games from his first seven seasons)... showed signs of brilliance with 20 points vs. the Nets 2/16 and 25 points vs. the Bullets 3/11... missed four games late in the year with knee problems but when Sid returned he looked refreshed and in the last nine games of the season averaged 11.7 ppg on .561 FG% and .891 FT% and for the most part looked sharp. ALL IN ALL — Had his lowest scoring average since his rookie season at 11.8 ppg and for the first time in five seasons didn't average at least 20 ppg... other marks included 3.3 rpg and 3.1 apg... had decent shooting season from the floor and from the charity stripe — those marks read .488 FG% accuracy and .840 FT% (third best FT shooting of career)... led the club in scoring eight times, rebounds once, assists four times and in steals on four occasions... best scoring effort of the year came on 11/5/86 at Philadelphia with 26 points... had one double-double for the year on 11/8/86 with 21 points and 10 rebounds... topped 20 points eight times in 39 outings and was in double figures 21 times... injury plagued year slowed Sid's movement on Bucks career lists — only advance came in minutes played where he slid past Brian Winters and Marques Johnson into third place (has career total of 19,032 minutes)... appears on every MKE career leader list except blocked shots.

1987 Playoffs: Was sensational throughout the post season with Moncrief-like numbers of 19.4 ppg, 4.5 rpg and 3.0 apg in 12 outings... despite missing over half of the regular season, operated on all cylinders in the playoffs with an average of 35.5 mpg — came off the bench in the first two games of the series with Philly but moved into the starting five for the remainder of the post season... set playoff career scoring highs in back-to-back games vs. Boston — with Milwaukee trailing the Celtics 3-1 and facing elimination in the Boston Garden, Sidney responded with a playoff best 33 points in leading MKE to a 129-124 victory — followed that with a 34 point blitz in game #6 which was another Bucks triumph (121-111)... vs. Philadelphia averaged 17.4 ppg, 4.6 rpg and 2.2 apg in 31.2 mpg before pushing those numbers to 20.9 ppg, 4.4 rpg and 3.6 apg in 38.6 mpg against Boston... moved into the number two position in Bucks history for playoff scoring in game #5 of the first round vs. Philly — finished the post season with 1,321 career playoff points and trails only Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (1,692) in team history... had decent shooting marks with .473% from the field and .811% from the charity stripe... has now appeared in 74 playoff contests with an average of 17.9 ppg.

NBA Honors: All-NBA First Team, 1983... All-NBA Second Team, 1982, 1984, 1985, 1986... NBA Defensive Player of the Year, 1983 and 1984... NBA All-Defensive First Team, 1983, 1984, 1985, 1986... NBA All-Defensive Second Team, 1982... NBA All-Star 1982, 1983, 1984, 1985, and 1986.

College: All-American and Southwest Conference Player of the Year at Arkansas during his senior season... leading scorer and rebounder in Razorback history... led the NCAA in field goal percentage in 1976 (.665%)... Sporting News All-America Second team, 1979... represented the United States team that won the World Invitational Games in 1978... writers tabbed him "Sid the Whiz Kid," "Sidney the Incredible" and one newspaper headline called Moncrief "The player of the ages rather than of the decade."... averaged 22 points per game during his senior year along with 9.6 rebounds, 2.7 assists and 1.5 steals in 38.5 minutes of play... registered a collegiate career high 39 points against Southern Mississippi.

Personal: Sidney and his wife Debra call Glendale, Wisconsin their home during the season and reside in Little Rock, Arkansas during the summer... the couple own a pair of Rottweilers... is in the process of starting up a

Buick dealership in Arkansas . . . active in the MACC Fund, Special Olympics, and several other charitable organizations . . . headed up the Bucks players program to visit Milwaukee city and suburban schools lecturing on the topics of drug and alcohol abuse, social responsibility, the value of an education and other life values . . . was one of ten recipients of the Ten Outstanding Young Americans award by the United States Jaycees in 1987 — the selection was made due to his inspiration and commitment in serving as a role model for disadvantaged youth . . . is the spokesman for Waukesha Hospital System's anti-drug essay contest for all senior high school students in that county . . . is on the board of directors of the Arkla Corporation, the Arkansas-Louisiana Gas Company.

'86-'87 Regular Season: Seemed to have hit his peak in the 1985-86 season when he was runner-up for the NBA's Sixth Man of the Year Award and set career highs in everything but blocked shots but that was far from the truth as Ricky's 1986-87 campaign was exceedingly better... many of his season career highs were once again toppled including points — tallied 1,540 points for the season and finished second on the team with a 19.5 average... other marks to fall by the wayside were FGM, FGA, FTM, FTA, FT%, blocked shots and offensive, defensive and total rebounds... rewrote some of his career game bests also — set new standards for FTM, FTA, FGA and blocks while tying marks for steals and assists... was one of a handful of NBA players to finish the season with a FG% over .500% and a FT mark of +.850%. ONE OF THE LEAGUE'S TOP MARKSMAN — Finished the year with sterling figures of .534% from the field and .880% from the charity stripe... led the NBA in FG% early in the year and was among the League's best for the first half of the season... dropped slightly in the second half but picked up the FT shooting and ended up among NBA leaders (nailed 81 of his final 89 FT tries for the year)... topped .500% from the floor on 50 occasions and .600% 29 times (in 1985-86 was over .500% 51 times)... on seven occasions nailed at least 10 FG's in a game with four or fewer misses... hottest stretch of the year came in the first 15 games of the season by hitting 115-179 FG's for .642% (was over .500% in all but two of those games)... thru 45 games was shooting .553% from the floor and tapered off somewhat the rest of the year — in final 36 games was 248-486 from the field for .510%... set a career high for FGA in a game with 21 vs. Dallas 1/16/87... missed more than one FT in a game on just 12 occasions... reached new career standards for FTM and FTA in a game on 2/12 by making 14-15. SEASON SPOTLIGHT — Was prolific scorer through the season as evidenced by 19.5 average... reached that mark despite averaging only 13.6 FG tries per outing... scored in double figures in all but three games, topped 20 points on 38 occasions and reached the 30 point barrier four times... tied his career best output with 32 points against Chicago 2/5/87 (hit 11-14 FG's and 10-10 FT's)... averaged nearly five ppg from the FT line by netting a career high 387... in nine game stretch early in the year (game #7-15) eclipsed 20 points in every game and averaged 25 ppg... led MKE in scoring 26 times, rebounds three times and in steals on eight occasions... other season numbers included 3.4 rpg and 1.8 apg in 31.7 mpg (first time averaging 30+ minutes per outing as a pro)... finished with 24 blocks on the year which almost equaled his total of 28 rejections in his first four NBA seasons... in three seasons with MKE has averaged 15.1 and that ranks ninth on the Bucks' career list for scoring average... during the 1986-87 season played in his 5,000th NBA minute and recorded his 750th rebound and 500th assist. NUMERO UNO BENCH PLAYER — Top scoring bench player in the League and came off the pines in all but 34 games (started 31 times and missed three due to injury or illness)... in his 51 appearances off the bench MKE recorded a 33-18 (.647%) record... averaged 18.6 ppg and shot .536% off the bench and was a key reason MKE's subs outscored opposing reserves 55 times on the year... was a member of the first five 31 times for the year and sported impressive marks of 20.1 ppg, 3.4 rpg on .538 FG% mark... started the final 12 games of the season and scored at a 19.4 clip on .561 FG% and .891 FT%... missed 38 games in first year with MKE but has been absent only four times in the past two seasons. 1987 Playoffs: Scored at a 15.9 clip through 12 playoff tilts including a post season career best of 29 points (10-14 FG's and 9-10 FT's) in game #3 of the conference semifinal against Boston... topped the 20 point mark three times and led the club in scoring once — on that occasion finished with 24 points (game #2 of the first round with Philadelphia) on career highs of 14 FTM and 17 FTA — 17 attempts also tied the Milwaukee playoff record held by Paul Pressey... shooting marks dipped a bit in the second season — canned .534% from the field and .880% from the free throw line during the regular season while playoff marks stood at .479 FG% and .821 FT%... playing time amounted to 26.4 mpg... was in the starting five for the first two games of the post season (averaged 17.5 ppg in 28.5 mpg in those two starts) ... was sharper in the Boston series with 16.6 ppg and 2.6 rpg on .477 FG% and .919 FT% — vs. the Sixers averaged 15 ppg and 2 rpg on .482 FG% and .700 FT%.

College: Was the second leading scorer in the NCAA Division I during his senior year at Rice University with an average of 26.8 ppg ... played his final three seasons of college ball at Rice after one year at Walla Walla Community College in Walla Walla, Washington ... was Rice's leading scorer and rebounder all three years he played there ... set school marks for most field goals (314), scoring average (26.8), free throws made (177), and points (805) in his senior campaign ... was named to the United States Basketball Writers First Team All-American squad, Basketball Weekly's Second Team and AP Third Team in his senior season.

Personal: Ricky and his wife, the former Joyce Wright, toured Spain and Canada last summer while Joyce was on tour as the lead singer with the Fifth Dimension ... Joyce had taken a break from the group about a year ago to pursue a solo album ... the couple split their off-time between Milwaukee and Garland, Texas last summer ... Ricky held a basketball camp for youths in the Houston area.

'86-'87 Regular Season: Former Head Coach Don Nelson always said that Paul is the player the Bucks could least afford to lose and unfortunately the numbers from the 1986-87 season support that statement . . . suffered a dislocated right ring finger vs. N.J. on 1/6/87 (that required surgery) forcing him to the sidelines for 17 consecutive games — Bucks were 7-10 during that stretch which included two three game losing streaks (three game skid was longest of the year for MKE; happened four times) . . . Paul then suffered a strained left thigh muscle later in the year and was absent four more games — Bucks were 1-3 in those outings and stumbled thru another three game drought . . . overall MKE recorded a sturdy 42-19 record with Paul's services and a paltry 8-13 mark without . . . entering the 1985-87 season Paul had missed only eight games in his first four pro years (and not more than three in one season). DOING IT ALL — As usual played many different roles for MKE both offensively and defensively was an All-Defensive Second Team selection in 1986-87 . . . two-time member of the NBA All-Defensive First Team despite defending against League's best guards, forwards, and on occasion centers . . . in addition to defense supplied 13.9 ppg, 7.2 apg and 4.9 rpg . . . was well on his way to passing for over 600 assists for the second straight season before the finger injury — Paul and Oscar Robertson are the only MKE players to ever top that total for a season . . . before being injured was among League leaders in feeds — in first 33 games averaged 14.3 ppg, 7.9 apg and 5.1 rpg . . . after sitting out 17 contests recorded marks of 13.3 ppg, 6.4 apg and 4.5 rpg over his final 28 appearances. SEASON TOTALS — Led Bucks in scoring two times, rebounds twice, assists 44 times and in steals on 26 occasions in 61 outings . . . logged his share of minutes with an average of 33.7 each outing . . . MKE was 28-8 when Paul dished out seven or more assists and 13-6 with three or more swipes . . . hit double figures in assists 14 times and in points on 48 occasions — topped 20 point mark 10 times with a season best of 27 against the Lakers 12/10 . . . other season highs included 15 assists vs. Sixers 11/5, 15 caroms (career best) vs. Bulls 12/5, and five steals (tying career best) vs. Lakers 12/10 . . . recorded two triple doubles and Bucks were winners in both contests — also had 12 double doubles in points and assists (MKE was 9-3 in those games) and four double doubles in points and rebounds (4-0 slate in those affairs). MOVING UP ON MKE CAREER LISTS — Entered the 1986-87 campaign on three of the Bucks career lists and by season's end that number became five . . . important milestones reached included 2,000th career assist, 4,000th career point, 500th career steal and 10,000th NBA minute . . . biggest jump on Bucks statistical list came in assists as Paul moved from ninth to fifth — passing Junior Bridgeman, Jon McGlocklin, Marques Johnson and Bobby Dandridge . . . one of only five MKE players to ever pass for more than 2,000 feeds . . . also moved up on FTM and FTA lists — for career is 1,100-1,514 (.727%) — passed Jon McGlocklin in FTM and Oscar Robertson in FTA . . . joined top 10 in MKE history in minutes played and games played . . . ninth on minutes played list with 10,895 (jumped over Alton Lister and Robertson) while ranking 10th in games played (leap-frogged Harvey Catchings) . . . would have appeared in top 10 in points (career total 4,482) but Terry Cummings will keep him off until this season.

1987 Playoffs: Nearly led the Bucks to an upset of the Celtics in the seventh and deciding game of the conference semifinal series with a spectacular 40 minute effort — finished with a playoff career high 28 points (12-17 FG's and 4-4 FT's), eight assists, four steals, two blocks and two caroms before fouling out . . . in the first three games of the Celtics series he struggled with marks of 7.3 ppg, 7.0 apg and 5.7 rpg on .188 FG% — totally turned things around in the final four games with sterling numbers of 19.5 ppg, 10 apg and 4.0 rpg on sizzling .636% field accuracy . . . overall in 12 outings recorded marks of 14.3 ppg, 8.6 apg, 5.2 rpg and 2.3 spg in a team high 38.8 mpg . . . shooting figures read .466% from the floor and .739% from the free throw line . . . has appeared in post season competition in each of his five NBA seasons with averages of 12.0 ppg and 6.9 apg in 59 outings.

College: Voted second team All-American by UPI and third team All-American by AP during senior year at the University of Tulsa . . . named Missouri Valley Conference Player-of-the-Year in 1981-82 and was twice named to the All-MVC First team . . . was selected for five different all-star games: the Coaches' East-West game, the Athletes-in-Action game, the Pizza Hut Classic, the Aloha Classic and the Sertoma Charities game . . . led Tulsa to its two winningest seasons in history, 26-7 and the NIT Championship during the 1980-81 campaign and 24-6 and an NCAA tourney berth for 1981-82 . . . paced the Golden Hurricanes with a 13.2 scoring clip . . . led the nation in steals with 96 during his junior year and responded with 95 thefts his senior season . . . set NIT record with six steals against UTEP and then topped that with seven against West Virginia . . . Pressey set or tied seven game and career records at Tulsa for steals . . . hit for 31 points vs. Oklahoma for a single game high . . . at the NIT, he thrilled the Madison Square Garden crowd when he drove, hung in mid-air, and faked twice bringing the ball all the way around his body before slapping it to a teammate for an easy layup . . . added such honors as Sports Illustrated Player of the Week, All-American selection by the United States Basketball Writers Association and National Association of Basketball Coaches. -

Junior College: Led Western Texas Junior College to a 37-0 JUCO National title . . . Consensus All-American and touted as one of the five top JUCO transfers by Basketball Weekly . . . named MVP in national tournament . . . averaged 13.9 points, 7.9 rebounds, 5.0 assists, 3.7 steals and 1.6 blocked shots per game.

High School: Played two years at Richmond Wythe in Richmond, Virginia.

Personal: Paul and his wife Elizabeth are the parents of 3½ year old Ashley Chavon and year old Angela . . . the couple lives in Tulsa, Oklahoma during the summer months . . . Paul graduated from Tulsa University with a degree in physical education . . . has six sisters and one brother.

'86-'87 Regular Season: Sophomore season started on a very promising note — was either a starter or a top reserve through the first 50 games of the 1986-87 season but things went downhill from there and was relegated to spot play during the final half of the year... opened the season on the injured list with a pulled left hamstring and missed the first eight games. FIRST HALF HIGHLIGHTS — Was key player for first 50 games of the year averaging 8.4 ppg, 3.5 rpg and 2.1 apg in 19.6 minutes of PT... appeared in 41 contests over that stretch and lined up for the opening tip 21 times... as a member of the first five recorded marks of 7.4 ppg and 3.7 rpg on a subpar .406 FG% (20.7 mpg)... MKE was 13-8 in Ice's first 21 starts of the season... topped 20 points three times for the season (all within first 50 games) and netted a career high 26 markers vs. Pistons 11/28... best stretch of play came early in the season (from game #10 thru #17) averaging 14.8 ppg and 4 rpg during eight game span... recorded season bests in points, rebounds, assists, steals and blocks in first 37 games of the year... only downer from first half was wayward shooting with FG mark of .393% and FT% of .678% thru first 50 games. SECOND HALF BLUES — Wasn't much of a factor for the Bucks over the last 32 games with averages of 3.4 ppg and 1.6 rpg in 8.9 minutes per outing... from game #51 thru #68 had 12 DNP-CD's and in other six contests averaged only 4.8 mpg (hit double digit minutes just once in that stretch)... playing time increased during one five game stretch late in the year when Ice saw action in 21.6 mpg from game #69 to 73 — averaged 6.4 ppg and 4 rpg in that span... in final 32 games reached double figures just once and topped his season average of 7.0 ppg on only three occasions... shooting accuracy also slipped in final 32 games with poor marks of .396% from the field and .500% from the free throw line. PUTTING DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE TOGETHER — Finished the season with 58 appearances and 24 starts... averaged 7.0 ppg, 3.0 rpg and 1.8 apg in 16.6 minutes of PT... reached double figures 16 times (up from total of six as a rookie)... led the club in scoring twice, assists twice, rebounds twice and steals six times... actually topped his rookie numbers in minutes, rebounds, assists, blocks and points by the 50th game of the season and by year's end made it a clean sweep by eclipsing his total for steals from the 1985-86 campaign... topped the .500% mark from the field only 19 times and finished the season with a .393 FG% (down from a rookie mark of .444%)... did improve slightly from the charity stripe by nailing .641% compared to .528% in 1985-86... snared a career high 12 rebounds 1/9/87 vs. Washington.

1987 Playoffs: Appeared in just four post season contests in 1987 for a total of five minutes — three stints of one minute each and one outing of two minutes... in game #4 of the conference semifinal with Philadelphia Jerry scored three points (all his scoring in the post season) in two minutes... during the 1985-86 season he appeared in seven post season tilts for an average of 5.7 mpg (2.9 ppg and 1.3 rpg).

College: Elected to enter the NBA draft after his junior year at L.S.U. where he became only the ninth player in Tiger history to eclipse the 1,000 point mark and 500 rebound plateau in his career... tallied 1,071 points to rank 15th and grabbed 613 rebounds for a 14th place ranking... versatile player has seen action at four different positions... was UPI third-team All-Southeastern Conference selection during his junior year and second-team pick as a sophomore... exciting player who averaged in double figures all three seasons finishing with a career average of 11.9 points per game... led the team in assists in his last season with 105... started five tilts at point guard and recorded back-to-back games with 11 assists... notched a 25 point, 11 assist and eight rebound performance against New Orleans... led the team in steals for a third straight year with 44... shot over .500% from the floor all three years... recorded a career field goal mark of .521%... as a sophomore led L.S.U. in scoring (14.2 ppg), rebounding (239) and steals (81) and placed second in field goal shooting (.528%) and blocked shots (18)... 81 steals led the SEC... sank a career high 29 points and cleared ten rebounds against North Carolina on national television... elected to Coach's first-team All-SEC... streak-shooter who can be devastating when hot... hit 11 of 14 field goal attempts against Georgia and nailed eight of 11 vs. Alabama as a sophomore... recorded seven steals in two different games... named to SEC All-Freshman squad after averaging 10.6 points and 6.2 rebounds per contest... led the Tigers with 65 steals.

High School: Honored as the New York Player of the Year in 1980-81... averaged 28 points, 18 rebounds, seven assists and four blocked shots per game for Alexander Hamilton High School in Brooklyn... led Alexander Hamilton High to a 29-2 record and the city championship as a senior... had prep career high of 46 points in one contest... chosen for Street & Smith's and Converse High School All-American teams.

Personal: Averaged 31.8 points on 48% floor and 78% line shooting along with 6.4 assists in seven outings with the Bucks' entry in the Southern California Summer Pro League — NBA Division ... was named to the NBA Honors First Team for his efforts ... also topped the summer loop with 3.0 assists per outing ... originally signed to play college ball at Wisconsin but transferred to Louisiana State after Badger coach Bill Cofield resigned ... nickname "Ice" stems all the way back to sixth grade ... learned to play the game on the New York City playgrounds ... has four older sisters and one older brother ... remains a bachelor and lives in Brooklyn during the off-season.

Pro Experience	: Currently in eleventh NBA season
Residence	: Seattle and Milwaukee

'86-'87 Regular Season: In his first season with MKE provided the Bucks with consistent play from the pivot position in the form of 12.7 ppg and 10.0 rpg ... arrived on the MKE scene in the highly publicized trade with Seattle for Alton Lister (Sikma and two second round draft choices were exchanged for Lister and two first round picks; the draft picks are for 1987 and 1989) ... along with Terry Cummings were the only two Bucks to appear in all 82 regular season contests — first time in three years and seventh time (in 10 year NBA career) overall that Jack answered the call in all 82 games ... led his club in rebounds for the ninth consecutive season (previous eight times came with Seattle) ... eclipsed 1,000 points for the ninth straight year (rookie season was the only time he failed to reach that mark) ... topped the 13,000th point mark for his career and now stands 67th on the all-time NBA scoring list — during the 1986-87 campaign passed 14 former greats. REBOUNDS, REBOUNDS AND MORE REBOUNDS — Ended with 822 boards for the season and became the first Buck to record 800+ caroms since Marques Johnson snared 847 in 1977-78 ... has topped 800 caroms seven times in 10 seasons but this year was the first time in three seasons ... paced the club in rebounding 48 times for the year and grabbed double figure rebounds on 44 occasions — had one streak of 10 straight games of double figure boards and another stretch of five consecutive ... best board effort of the season came 11/5 vs. Philly with 21 caroms; gathered 18 rebounds in a game twice. SCORING SUMMARY — Did top 1,000 points for the ninth straight year but his total of 1,045 markers was his lowest since his rookie season ... scoring average of 12.7 ppg was well below his career mark of 16.8 (entering 1986-87 season) but that was due to fewer FGA and FTA ... finished with 842 FG tries (lowest since rookie season) and 313 FT attempts (lowest since 1979-80 campaign) ... led the club in scoring four times and netted a season high 28 points 2/11 at New York ... topped the 20 point barrier four times and for the year was in double figures on 61 occasions (MKE had a 41-20 slate when Jack scored in double digits). SEASON WRAP-UP — In addition to topping the Bucks in rebounds, Jack was the team's top shot blocker with 90 swats (fourth straight year leading his club in rejections) ... also paced MKE in double doubles (points and rebounds) with 35 — late in season put together a streak of nine double doubles ... averaged 2.5 assists per game but total of 203 feeds was lowest since rookie year — led club in feeds four times ... was fourth on club in thefts with 88 ... averaged 30+ mpg for 9th straight year ... missed just 23 games in 10 years ... had a slow start shooting but by season's end was near career marks for FG% and FT% ... thru the first 41 contests shot a subpar .442% from the field and .784% from the line — with strong second half which featured .484 FG% and .881 FT% in last 41 contests, Jack was able to finish up at .463% from the floor and .847% from the charity stripe ... best shooting stretch of season came in the month of February, hitting 65-125 (.520%) FT's and 59-63 (.937%) FT's ... finished with 328 fouls and 14 DQ's and both stand as career high (previous career high for fouling out in a season was six times) ... among active NBA players ranks in the top 10 in rebounds, FT% and minutes played. 1987 Playoffs: Always known as a clutch playoff performer, Jack did nothing but enhance that reputation during the 1987 post season ... was spectacular throughout the 12 playoff contests with marks of 16.2 ppg and 10.8 rpg on splendid shooting numbers of .487% from the field and an unbelievable .980% from the free throw line (canned 48-49 FTA) ... set an NBA playoff record in the Boston series with most FTM without a miss in a seven game series ... nailed all 35 free throw tries against the Celtics to shatter the old mark of 23 by Calvin Murphy ... averaged 17.6 ppg and 9.6 rpg vs. Boston and 14.2 ppg and 12.6 rpg against Philadelphia ... led the club in scoring once and rebounds eight times in the playoffs ... scored in double figures every game and reached double digits in rebounding seven times ... in the fifth and deciding game of the Philadelphia series responded with playoff career best of 21 rebounds accented by 18 points ... had slightly better marks in Bucks wins with 16.7 ppr, 12 rpg and .520 FG% while those numbers were 15.7 ppg, 9.7 rpg and .453 FG% in playoff defeats ... was hero of game #3 vs. Philly courtesy of the game winning basket with just one second remaining in a 121-120 MKE victory ... hadn't appeared in the playoffs since 1984 — during his career has now played in 81 post season contests with marks of 15.2 ppg and 9.9 rpg.

NBA Career: Ranks fifth among active NBA players in rebounds and 15th in scoring — enters the 1986-87 campaign as the 67th leading scorer in NBA history... has ranked among the top ten in the NBA in boards in six of his ten years in the League... appears in the top ten in all Seattle team categories and owns the top spot in five of them... far and away the Sonics' top all-time rebounder with 7,729 — Spencer Haywood is a distant second with 3,954... entered the NBA as an unknown number one pick from Illinois Wesleyan in 1977 and proceeded to make the 1977-78 NBA All-Rookie team... has been a seven time member of the Western Conference All-Star team, but has never been voted on the team — always selected by the coaches... has finished in the top ten in FT% three times in his career; only two centers (Sikma and Mike Gminski) have ranked in that category since 1964-65... highlight of career came in 1979 when Sonics defeated the Washington Bullets for the NBA championship... has been selected to the NBA All-Defensive team twice... his trademark has become "The Move", an unorthodox, virtually unblockable jump shot developed in college... has run up consecutive games played streaks of 439 and 195... played all 82 games from rookie season through 1981-82 and again in '83-'84 and '86-'87... has missed just 23 games in nine years, appearing in 98% of his team's games.

College: Was an NAIA All-American during his last two years of college as well as an Academic All-American... only player (at the time) ever drafted out of tiny Illinois Wesleyan (1,600 enrollment)... averaged 21.2 ppg and 13.1 rpg in four collegiate seasons... participated in 1976 U.S. Olympic Trials... inducted into the NAIA Hall of Fame in March, 1983.

Personal: Jack and his wife Shawn are the parents of a 1½ year old son, Jacob... Shawn was a Seattle area model before their marriage in 1984... Jack enjoys golf and boasts a 12 handicap... has staged the Jack Sikma Celebrity Golf tournament in Seattle the past three summers to benefit the Seattle Children's Orthopedic Hospital... has a degree in accounting from Illinois Wesleyan.

College	Loyola Marymount University '86
When Drafted	Second round by Milwaukee in 1986 (45th overall)
Pro Experience	Currently in second NBA season
Residence	West Covina, California

'86-'87 Season: After appearing in 42 of the Bucks first 50 games Keith was placed on the injured list 2/11 with sciatica (back ailment) and was absent from the final 32 contests... was drafted in the second round by MKE in 1986 (45th pick overall) and earned a spot on the roster during the pre-season with impressive play, especially defensively... was only non first round draft pick of MKE to make Bucks roster since Pat Cummings (third round) and Otis Howard (fourth round) did so in 1978... had eight DNP-CD's... in 42 outings sported marks of 3.3 ppg and 1.0 apg in 11 minutes of playing time per outing... was inserted in the starting lineup four times and in those averaged 6.3 ppg, 3.8 apg and 1.5 rpg in 25 mpg... in his first start on 1/9 vs. Washington played a season high 45 minutes and finished with eight points, nine assists (season high), three caroms (tied season high) and three steals (tied season best)... reached double figures four times on the year with a high of 15 vs. Portland on 1/11 (Keith's second start)... during those initial two starts enjoyed his best stretch of the season as Keith averaged 10.4 ppg and 3.8 apg in 28.4 mpg... in a five game stretch from 1/7 to 1/15... topped .500% from the floor 10 times for the year and overall finished with a subpar .380 FG mark... fared better at the FT line at .750% and from bonus range at .333%... led the team in assists twice and steals three times... finished the season with 25 steals.

College: Named to the All-West Coast Athletic Conference team three straight seasons... led the WCAC in scoring in both his junior and senior seasons, averaging 25.1 ppg in 1984-85 and 21.0 in 1985-86... paced the WCAC in assists for two consecutive years with marks of 5.6 as a junior and 7.0 as a senior... Smith combined with backcourt mate Forrest McKenzie to form the top scoring guard combination in the nation his senior season, averaging 41.1 ppg between the two... became the second leading scorer in school history during his senior campaign, finishing with 1,980 points for a four-year average of 18.0 points per outing... can be a scoring machine, but was the floor leader during his final year at Marymount, leading his team to a 19-11 record, including an invitation to the National Invitational Tournament... that was Marymount's best season in 18 years... connected on .500% of his shots from the floor and .767% of his free throw tries as a senior — his career marks in those categories were .485% from the field and .722% from the charity stripe... paced Marymount in scoring 17 times during his senior year... career high of 36 points was accomplished on two occasions — versus UC-Irvine December 1, 1984 as a junior and against U.S. International January 1, 1986 as a senior... started 59 consecutive games at Marymount, beginning late in his freshman season and continuing through his senior season... durable performer, as is evidenced by his average of over 35 minutes a game during his final three seasons... quickness and his ability to drive to the basket are his top attributes... competed in the Aloha Classic All-Star tournament for the nation's top seniors where he sustained a broken right foot.

High School: Attained All-Sierra League recognition as a senior at West Covina High School while averaging 19 points a game and leading the league in assists with 6.7 per contest... led his squad to the CIF 3A quarterfinals during his senior season.

For the 1986-87 season the Bucks missed a total of 217 player games due to injury or illness. That's like every man on a twelve-man roster missing 18 games. Over the last ten seasons (since 1977-78, Don Nelson's first full year as head coach), the Bucks have totaled 1,027 player games missed due to injury or illness, an average of 102.7 per season. Those figures can be compared to the Bucks' rival in the Central Division, Detroit, who over the past nine seasons has totaled 867 missed games due to injury or illness, an average of 96.3. New York registered an all-time NBA high of 386 manpower games missed due to injury during the 1985-86 season topping the mark they set in 1984-85 of 339.

By year, here is the Milwaukee breakdown: 1977-78 — 20, 1978-79 — 99 (Meyers missed entire season due to a bad back), 1979-80 — 52, 1980-81 — 41, 1981-82 — 106, 1982-83 — 163, 1983-84 — 84, 1984-85 — 137, 1985-86 — 108, 1986-87 — 217.

Through the 1986-87 NBA season no fewer than five NBA teams recorded 200+ injury games. Of that group (L.A. Clippers, Milwaukee, New Jersey, New York, and Philadelphia) only Milwaukee and Philadelphia qualified for the playoffs.

Here's the 1986-87 breakdown by player: Bradley 8, Breuer 6, Bridgeman 13, Engler 6, Hodges 4, Mokeski 4, Moncrief 43, Pierce 3, Pressey 21, Reynolds 9, Skiles 68, Smith 32.

*DNP — Did not play. DND — Did not dress. DNT — Did not travel. NWT — Not with team.

PIERCING THE NETS

The Bucks' Ricky Pierce was amongst elite company in 1986-87 in regards to shooting as he was one of only five NBA players to finish with a FG% above .500% and a FT% mark over .850%. He finished with a .534% mark from the field and a .880% standard from the free throw line. Others in the NBA to accomplish that feat were Boston's Larry Bird, Detroit's Bill Laimbeer, Phoenix's Walter Davis and Portland's Kiki Vandeweghe.

STARTING LINEUP SHUFFLE

Whoever the philosopher that offered "the only thing constant is change" certainly had the 1986-87 edition of the Milwaukee Bucks in mind. Through the campaign the club set an all-time franchise record for missed games due to injury or illness of 217. There were 32 roster changes and a total of 25 different starting lineups. Those figures represent highs for Milwaukee since 1981-82, the first year we officially kept tabs on these pieces of information, showing the breakdowns:

	Starting Lineups	Roster Changes	Injury or Illness
1986-87	25	32	217
1985-86	10	14	108
1984-85	12	14	137
1983-84	23	12	84
1982-83	23	27	163
1981-82	15	—	106

In 1986-87 three groupings in particular saw the most playing time together. Groups 1, 5, and 20 below saw action together in 11, 13, and 16 games respectively. The most successful starting lineup was one in which Cummings and Pressey started at forward, Sikma at center, and Hodges and Reynolds were at guard. That outfit recorded an 11-2 (.846%) record and first saw action November 29. Much later in the season on March 1 the group of Cummings and Pressey at forward, Sikma in the middle, and Lucas and Pierce at guard pieced together a 4-1 (.800%) mark before Don Nelson opted for some experimentation in the lineup.

Sikma is the only player who answered the buzzer for the opening tap in all 82 games. Cummings came close with 77 starting assignments and nearly called it a complete season save for one early season game on November 11 in which he came off the bench, and Nelson's late season experimentation with bringing Cummings off the bench and redistributing his minutes.

Here are the starting lineups and their records:

BUCKS CAREER LEADER CHANGES OVER THE COURSE OF THE 1986-87 SEASON (Bucks totals unless otherwise noted)

THE TEAM — For the seventh consecutive season recorded at least 50 victories — finished 50-32... that extended MKE's record for 50-win seasons which they broke in 1985-86... the Bucks previous standard was five straight 50-win campaigns from 1969-70 to 1973-74... for the fourth consecutive season the Bucks lowered the team record for turnovers, committing just 1,260 and eclipsing the old standard of 1,369... MKE set team records for three pointers made and attempted in a season by nailing 185-572 (both would have been new NBA standards but the Bucks were passed by other teams in both categories)... Bucks were also involved in two other record setting three point affairs... vs. Detroit 11/28/86 the Bucks launched an NBA record 17 bonus shots; in another contest at Dallas 1/30/87 the Bucks and Mavs set new NBA marks for three pointers made and attempted by two teams (Dallas and MKE combined for 16 makes and 26 tries)... MKE also set season marks for fewest defensive rebounds and fewest total rebounds in a season — the Bucks snared a franchise low 2,322 defensive caroms (breaking the mark of 2,353 from the 1984-85 campaign) while also gathering a team low for total boards with 3,441 (that snapped the previous low of 3,520 from 1983-84).

COACH DON NELSON — Remained in the 11th spot on the all-time NBA coaches win list and finished the season with a 540-344 career mark... Nellie recorded his 500th NBA coaching victory 11/26/86 and became the fastest coach in League history to reach that figure — came in his 817th contest while the previous best was 821 games by Red Auerbach.

JUNIOR BRIDGEMAN — Appears on 11 of Milwaukee's 12 career statistical categories... holds top spot in games played and became the first player in team history to play in 700 games — finished the year with 711 appearances... also inched higher on career list for points and field goals made, and in both cases slid by Brian Winters... entrenched in fifth place on points list with 9,892 and fourth place in FGM with 4,162.

TERRY CUMMINGS — In only three seasons with MKE now appears on seven Bucks career lists... remained second in highest scoring average with 21.4 mark... nudged on to the other six lists for the first time in 1986-87... stands eighth in points with 5,195 and moved ahead of Lucius Allen, Oscar Robertson, and Quinn Buckner... also eighth in rebounds, FGM, and FGA... has 2,110 caroms and passed Dave Meyers, Curtis Perry, and Harvey Catchings... connected on 2,169-4,396 FG's in three years in MKE uniform and leap-frogged Buckner, Robertson, and Allen on both FGM and FGA lists... now holds the ninth position in FTA with 1,243 (passed Dave Meyers and Bob Lanier) and the 10 spot in FTM with 857 (ahead of Lanier).

JOHN LUCAS — Moved among the top ten in NBA history in assists and finished the season with 5,564 feeds... climbed past Dave Bing and Kevin Porter but was topped by Magic Johnson and now stands in the tenth position.

SIDNEY MONCRIEF — Injury-plagued season slowed Sidney's movement on MKE career lists... only jump came in minutes played — now has 19,032 minutes of PT which places him third in Bucks history (jumped over Brian Winters and Marques Johnson)... appears on every career list except for blocked shots.

RICKY PIERCE — Second leading scorer for MKE in 1986-87 with 19.5 ppg, and in his three seasons with the Bucks has pushed his average to 15.1 points per outing... that leaves Ricky in eighth place in Bucks history in scoring average; slipped in front of Bridgeman and Allen.

PAUL PRESSEY — Biggest leap on MKE's career lists came in assists as Paul climbed into the fifth spot with 2,066 feeds — opened the year in ninth but catapulted past Bridgeman, Jon McGlocklin, Marques Johnson, and Bobby Dandridge... also moved up in FTM and FTA with 1,100 makes and 1,514 tries in his career (passed McGlocklin in FTM and Robertson in FTA)... joined top 10 in MKE history in minutes played and games played... ninth in minutes played with 10,895 (toppling Alton Lister and Robertson) and 10th in games with 381 (ahead of Harvey Catchings).

JACK SIKMA — Topped the 13,000th point mark for his career and is entrenched in the number 66 slot on the all-time NBA scoring list — during the 1986-87 season passed 14 former NBA greats.

ALL-TIME NBA STATISTICS

TOP NBA CAREER SCORERS

(Active players in capital letters)

Figures from National Basketball League are included below. NBL did not record field goal attempts, however, so all field goal percentages listed here are based only on field goals and attempts in NBA competition. Minutes played not compiled prior to 1952. Rebounds not compiled prior to 1951.

*Prior to the 1973-74 season, Arena capacity was 10,746. Starting in 1973-74 capacity increased to 10,938, and to 11,052 in 1980-81.

TALE OF THE TURNSTYLES

The 1986-87 season was a record-setter at the gate for the NBA as a whole and the Milwaukee Bucks in particular. The NBA has now set and broken their all-time attendance records the past four years running.

NBA regular season attendance topped the 12 million mark for the first time in the League's 41-year history as a total of 12,065,351 fans attended the 943 games. That represents an increase of 7.6 percent over the 1985-86 total of 11,214,888. The average crowd of 12,795 broke the record of a year earlier when an average of 11,893 attended NBA games.

As for Milwaukee, the Bucks averaged an even 11,000 fans in 41 Milwaukee Arena dates, including 36 sellouts. Overall the club drew 450,987 fans. Only 2,145 seats went unsold the entire season. Those figures eclipse the all-time highs of 10,936 for average fans per game (set in 1980-81). In terms of number of sellouts, the 36 sellouts ranks second behind the 39 sellouts in 1979-80. The Bucks played to .995% of Arena capacity in 1986-87, a mark bettered only in the 1979-80 season with a .997 percentage.

HISTORY

BUCKS CELEBRATE 20th ANNIVERSARY 1968-1988

Milwaukee has received many "bangos" from their Bucks over the past two decades.

Former Bucks' radio-TV announcer Eddie Doucette used to excitedly shout the word "Bango!" whenever a hometown favorite scored a goal. The history of the Bucks 20-year journey, dating back to when the National Basketball Association awarded the city this franchise, certainly deserves such a joyful shout.

After all, the team has given fans many opportunities to shout since being added as an expansion team in 1968 along with the Phoenix Suns.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and his sky-hooks, Oscar Robertson backing a helpless defender into the paint on a post-up, the 1971 championship season, the playing-with-pain sagas of Bob Lanier and Sidney Moncrief... all are memories now, part of the Bucks' legend and tradition of excellence.

Many such moments brought shouts of "Bango!" and similar whoops that echoed loudly in the Milwaukee Arena, one of the NBA's smallest facilities with its 11,052 capacity. It somehow seems appropriate that at the 20-year mark, that, too, is about to change with the construction of Lloyd and Jane Pettit's gift to Milwaukee of the Bradley Center.

So far, all the Bucks' history has been written on that portable arena floor, made more distinctive by the colorful painting of Robert Indiana. In 1967, there was no colorful floor or colorful Buck players except in the imaginations of a group of local entrepreneur-philanthropists, like Wes Pavalon, Marv Fishman, and current owner Herb Kohl.

At that time, Kohl helped seek the franchise but stepped aside to allow other interested investors establish the team. Little did Kohl know then he would be purchasing the club nearly two decades later to help preserve the Bucks for Milwaukee.

When the Milwaukee group went looking for the franchise, some NBA owners were hesitant. After all, it was only 12 years earlier when the Milwaukee Hawks flew out of town for St. Louis, leaving the city without a professional basketball franchise. Low attendance had prodded the move after only four seasons here.

And what about the ugly exodus of the Milwaukee Braves baseball team for Atlanta's supposedly lucrative TV market just two years before, in 1965? Didn't that prove Milwaukee wasn't really big league?

Fishman and Pavalon did not think so and eventually were able to win over then NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy and the owners by their own confidence in the venture.

Ironically, Ben Kerner, former Hawks' owner who had become a member of the NBA Expansion Committee, repaid Milwaukee for the earlier flight when he helped the new franchise pass his committee.

On Jan. 22, 1968, the League formally granted Milwaukee an NBA franchise.

Then, in a move made only by the New York Knicks before them, the Milwaukee owners offered the public the opportunity to buy shares in the team. Was Milwaukee ready for pro basketball? The public response to the public stock offer was so enthusiastic, the owners greatly increased the offering.

A love affair between the fans and their team had begun.

One fan in particular, R.D. Trebilcox of Milwaukee, even won a 1968 AMC Javelin for submitting the winning entry in a contest to pick the team's name.

"Bucks are spirited, good jumpers, fast and agile," he wrote in explaining his entry.

Like most expansion teams, the first collection of Bucks may not have seemed to fit Trebilcox's description exactly. Before an opening night crowd of 8,467, the Bucks lost their very first game to the Chicago Bulls, 89-84. Leading the team were center Wayne Embry, who eventually left a large imprint on the franchise; forwards Don Smith, Lenny Chappell, and Greg Smith; and guards Guy Rodgers, "Gentleman" Jon McGlocklin, now the Bucks' radio-TV color commentator, and Flynn "The Electric Eye" Robinson, dubbed so for his uncanny shooting touch.

Their coach, Larry Costello, was hired away from an assistant coaching job with the Philadelphia 76ers and he almost became a player-coach. The Bucks had even drafted him in case they wanted to use him.

But Costello decided it would be a large enough task just to coach this team of draft choices and castoffs from other teams.

The Bucks did not win their first game until two weeks later, on Oct. 31, 1968, when they bewitched the Detroit Pistons with a 134-118 victory. The fans formed a love affair with their team, as they continued to pass through the Arena turnstiles regardless of the record. More than 212,000 fans attended the 34 home games that season. That 6,246 per game average was, at the time, the best ever for an expansion team.

And the Bucks themselves began to shed that expansion stigma, proving themselves to be a group of over-achievers that almost won too many games to be eligible for a shot at the world's best player — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, then known as Lew Alcindor. But their 27-55 record barely qualified them to flip against the loser in the other division, none other than fellow rookie in the NBA, the Phoenix Suns.

The Suns' fans had been polled during the season as to which side of the coin should be called on March 19, 1969. They said heads. As brain trusts of both teams huddled in their headquarters, Commissioner Kennedy announced the Suns had won the right to call the flip and they did indeed call heads.

"So Phoenix called heads," Bucks General Manager John Erickson recalled 10 years later when telling Milwaukee Journal columnist Bob Wolf. "And when it came up tails, the place went crazy. The policemen danced on their chairs, people ran into the street, horns started honking — I could hardly hear anything on the phone."

Fishman also recalled in his 1978 book, Bucking the Odds, the Birth of the Milwaukee Bucks, that Pavalon, with cigarette in mouth, hugged Erickson in his elation, and burnt the general manager in the ear.

The team could also have been burned had not Abdul-Jabbar decided to take only one offer from the Bucks and one from the ABA instead of starting a bidding war. He eventually signed a five-year pact for an estimated $1.4 million.

Attendance in 1969-70 jumped as high as the new center and the team's standing. An average 9,490 fans per game watched the Bucks finish second in the Eastern Division, almost reversing their previous record by going 56-26.

Anticipation rose even higher as the young Bucks defeated Philadelphia 4-1 to advance to the division finals against New York. But the Knicks, led by Willis Reed and Walt Frazier, beat the Bucks 4-1 and went on to beat the Los Angeles Lakers for the championship.

Besides Abdul-Jabbar, a solid core of players had developed with McGlocklin, Smith, and Robinson, and fourth-round draft pick Bob Dandridge. Wait till next year.

Then, during the off-season, the Bucks made yet another major move by trading their first year's first-round draft pick, Charlie Paulk, and Robinson to Cincinnati to acquire perennial All-Star guard Oscar Robertson. Another important move, trading Don Smith to Seattle for Lucius Allen and Bob Boozer in September, went all but unnoticed with the Robertson hoopla.

The results and rewards were instantaneous. All the pieces were in place.

In that first "Oscar-winning" season with the Bucks, they "Kareem-ed" all opposition and streaked to a 66-16 record. In the process, they set NBA records for home wins (34); road wins (28); field goal percentage (.509); field goals made, 3,972; and assists, 2,249.

In their third season, the Bucks set the NBA on its ear, winning the Midwest Division crown and finishing with the second best record in the Western Conference.

The way the Bucks raced through the playoffs assured a spot as one of the great teams of all time. First, they beat San Francisco 4-1 before beating their California neighbors, fearsome Los Angeles, likewise 4-1.

The final showdown came with the then Baltimore Bullets, led by Wes Unseld and the incomparable playground prototype guard, Earl "The Pearl" Monroe. The Bullets had just knocked off the defending champion Knicks and were in a heady mood. Kareem and Co. soon made that a nasty headache as they blew out the Bullets 4-0.

NBA CHAMPS! No other team had ever come so far, so fast.

In only the third year, Milwaukee's franchise reigned supreme. Ironically, former Marquette University basketball star Don Kojis almost predicted that scenario in a story in the Milwaukee Journal on February 13, 1968.

When asked about the chances for the franchise, Kojis said, "If fans realize the difficulties the new expansion players will go through their first year, and accept them, they will reap the benefits beginning with the third year, when they'll finally have something going here."

In a Milwaukee Sentinel article on May 2, 1971, with the giddiness of the event still fresh in his mind, Fishman said, "I thought it was just too overwhelming for a franchise to work out so quickly."

Nobody knew just how powerful the Bucks had become. Kareem and Oscar were the difference, the main men. Abdul-Jabbar was named NBA Most Valuable Player in 1970-71, an honor he would also be bestowed with the Bucks in the 1971-72 and 1973-74 seasons.

Robertson led the team in assists, as he would in every year with the team, with 668 in 1970-71 while also managing to average 19.4 points. He was at the top of almost every NBA category that year.

The Bucks repeated as division champs in 1971-72. In December they traded Greg Smith to Houston for Curtis Perry, along with some draft exchanges.

For the third straight year, the Bucks made the playoffs. Abdul-Jabbar averaged 34.8 points a game.

The Bucks looked like they might cruise through the League again when the lambasted Golden State Warriors in five games. But unlike the previous season, the L.A. Lakers, led by Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West, were more determined to stop the Bucks' trot. After all, it was the Bucks who on January 9 had stopped the Lakers' record-setting win streak of 33 games.

L.A. won the series 4-2 in the conference finals.

The Bucks bounced back in 1972-73, going 60-22, and became the only NBA team ever to win 60 or more games in three consecutive seasons. They also won their third straight Midwest Division title and tied nemesis L.A. for the best Western Conference record.

But plagued by injuries, the Bucks were felled by the Golden State Warriors, led by sharp-shooting Rick Barry. Those playoffs marked the last time that most of the team that won the 1970-71 championship would play together.

In 1973-74, the Bucks once again won the Midwest Division with a 59-23 record. During that campaign, however, starting guard Lucius Allen — close friend and teammate of Kareem's since their days at UCLA — slipped on a Piston's warm-up jacket on the sidelines during warmups at a Detroit game March 15. He was out for the remainder of the year.

Whether the Bucks might have won a championship that year with a healthy Allen is a question that still haunts Bucks' fans of that era. After all, the Bucks beat L.A. 4-1 and mauled Chicago 4-0 in the playoffs.

The difference in the championship series turned out to be razor-thin as the Bucks tied the series at 3-3 in Boston on March 10, 1974 in one of the most memorable games in NBA history.

Despite the vaunted Boston Garden jinx, the Bucks refused to concede the championship to the Celtics in this game. Perhaps sensing a last chance with that team, Abdul-Jabbar gave a magnificent effort. It was capped by the vision of his gangly, yet graceful body floating down the right side of the court with only three seconds left in the second overtime and the Bucks trailing.

Abdul-Jabbar took the ball and let fly one of his patented sky-hooks, but 15-feet away from the basket on a run. Swish — the ball went through and the teams came back to Milwaukee for the seventh game two days later.

The Bucks, however, appeared drained from their effort and lost 102-87. It would be the last playoff game for the Bucks with Robertson, and the closest they would come again with Kareem.

On Sept. 3, 1974, after four seasons with the Bucks, Oscar retired. His No. 1 jersey was the first Bucks number retired to the Arena rafters. In his career, he had scored more points (26,710), dished out more assists (9,987), sank more free throws (7,964), and played in more games (1,035) than any other guard in NBA history.

On Nov. 9, 1974, Lucius Allen was traded to L.A. for guard Jim Price. What followed was perhaps the Bucks' most frustrating season.

In 1974-75, Abdul-Jabbar had a season of discontent. It started with an incident in which then Celtics forward Don Nelson inadvertently poked Abdul-Jabbar in the eye during a play. In agony and frustration over another in a series of eye injuries, the center punched the basketball support... and broke his hand.

He missed the first 16 regular season games, during which the Bucks were 3-13. Then Price was injured in January, 1975, and the team never could seem to regain the lost ground. For the first time since Kareem had come to Milwaukee, the Bucks failed to make the playoffs.

Abdul-Jabbar, Price, and Dandridge were all named to the NBA All-Star team, the first time one team had three entrants. Nevertheless, the Bucks finished last in the Midwest Division, with a 38-44 record.

After the 1974-75 disappointment, Abdul-Jabbar voiced his desire to be traded to either his New York hometown or his college venue in Los Angeles.

On June 16, 1975, the Lakers expedited matters by making the Bucks an offer they couldn't refuse. Abdul-Jabbar and backup center Walt Wesley went to L.A. In return, the Bucks received an infusion of talent featuring first round draft choices and prospects. The prospects: hot-shooting Brian Winters and rebounding center Elmore Smith. The rookies were All-Americans David Meyers, UCLA, and Junior Bridgeman, University of Louisville.

"There's no doubt we regret seeing Kareem go," said Wayne Embry, former Bucks' center and then general manager for the team. "But we had to be realistic. When a situation like this happens, you do it."

Winters, Meyers, and Bridgeman all showed they could do it. And Smith averaged 11.4 rebounds per game that first Kareem-less season of 1975-76. At least the Bucks made the playoffs again, even though with a 38-44 record. It was something the Bucks had not done with Abdul-Jabbar the season before. And Bucks' fans noted the Kareem-led Lakers were only 38-44 as well.

In fact, Coach Larry Costello earned his 400th victory when his Bucks beat Abdul-Jabbar and friends in L.A. that season.

Yet the Bucks still lost to the Detroit Pistons in the playoffs. Only Dandridge was named to the NBA All-Stars.

Still more changes were in store for the Bucks in 1976-77, maybe the most tumultuous season in franchise history. On Nov. 4, 1976, Janesville cable TV magnate James Fitzgerald joined William J. Blake and J.P. Cullen and Son Corp. in purchasing 361,000 outstanding shares of the Bucks' Milwaukee Professional Sports and Services stock. Fitzgerald became chairman of the board and corporation president.

Wayne Embry assumed a role as consultant to the team in June, 1977, leaving his post as general manager. The general manager duties were then split between John Steinmiller, former Bucks' publicity director, named business operations director, and Don Nelson, named head coach.

Nelson had been hired by Coach Costello as an assistant on September 6, 1976. He had been an outstanding Celtic forward and a pupil of Red Auerbach, the Celtics' famed coach. Still, even Nelson was hardly ready when just 18 games into the season, Costello resigned in frustration over the declining fortunes of his team. Nelson was named to replace him.

"It was initiated by me," Costello said later of the resignation, "because I thought that was best for everyone concerned."

Nelson told the Milwaukee Journal November 22, 1976, "Truthfully, I'm embarrassed with the job, as I told Jim (Fitzgerald). I expected to be an assistant for at least two years. I certainly don't know all the answers because I'm new too."

He did benefit from a good draft the preceding June, which brought Indiana University star Quinn Buckner, future star Alex English, Scott Lloyd, and Lloyd Walton to the team. And UCLA product Swen Nater was the second pivot man to try to fill Abdul-Jabbar's shoes.

But veteran guard Jon McGlocklin retired. Soon his No. 14 jersey would hang in honor beside Robertson's. nd veterans Elmore Smith and Jim Price were gone, and Mickey Davis was waived. The team floundered.

The major highlight of the season was the Bucks hosting the annual NBA All-Star game. Abdul-Jabbar was greeted with an ovation by Milwaukee fans in a class move. In another irony, the game's MVP was Julius Erving, a.k.a. "Dr. J.", who was drafted by the Bucks in 1972 but never was signed by the club amid a controversy with the Atlanta Hawks.

The Bucks' 30-52 record that season meant no playoffs again, but it did offer much promise of a good draft, Nelson's first. With three first round picks he took, in order, Indiana center Kent Benson, UCLA star Marques Johnson, and University of Tennessee forward Ernie Grunfeld.

Nater was drafted prior to the start of the 1977-78 season, while Dandridge was signed as a free agent by the Washington Bullets.

It marked the beginning of the Bucks' so-called "Green and Growing" years, with Nelson joined by former Celtics' assistant John Kililea. The team's young stars offered little in playoff experience but much in potential.

There was a rather ominous incident for Benson, however, in his first regular season game with none other than Abdul-Jabbar. The Lakers' center, upset over an alleged blow to the solar plexus by a Benson elbow, flattened Benson with a punch just two minutes and nine seconds into the contest. Benson missed several games with a concussion.

Milwaukee did finish the season 44-38 and shocked favorite Phoenix 2-0 in a playoff mini-series. Denver defeated the Bucks 4-3, however, in a rough and tough series. The fans were beginning to sense something with this team, though, and set an average attendance record of 10,711 fans each game.

The off-season saw the Bucks lose a budding superstar in free agency when Alex English signed with the Indiana Pacers. Even more painful was the loss of scrappy forward David Meyers to a career-ending back injury that season.

The Bucks, so depleted, reversed their previous record and finished 38-44. They missed the playoffs for only the third time in their history.

Yet somehow, attendance kept rising. It reached 10,827 per game, or 99 percent capacity, that year. Marques Johnson helped lead the new young squad, being named an All-Star and finishing with a 25.6 points per game scoring average, third best in the NBA.

The Bucks seemed on the brink of forming another great team after the draft in May, 1979 when they acquired University of Arkansas star Sidney Moncrief. In what was perhaps Nelson's most deft draft move, he managed to switch draft choices with Detroit — anxious to sign Michigan State star forward Greg Kelsey — plus receive $100,000 from the Pistons, and still draft Moncrief, whom he preferred all along.

The vigorous Bucks took an early lead in the Midwest race but still lacked dominant play in the pivot. In the four years since Kareem left, many had adequately filled the pivot, but without championship level play. Then the 1979-80 season All-Star break came and with it the announcement that Milwaukee had dealt a first round draft pick and Benson to Detroit for Bob Lanier, one of the League's premier centers.

After that trade, the Bucks went 20-6 as Lanier showed it was not his fault that Piston teams had been kept from the NBA title for so long. Still, the Bucks lost to the Seattle Supersonics and center Jack Sikma that year in seven games. It would take time for the team to gel.

That collaboration of talent realized its potential in the 1980-81 season when the Bucks returned to the lofty plateau of winning 60 games, as opposed to 22 losses. Some experts said this could have been the Bucks' year for a championship. However, one of the key pieces to the puzzle, Meyers, had retired in April, 1980, a five-year veteran and only 27.

Even without Meyers, the team tied the club record of 34 wins and only seven losses at home and went 25-16 on the road. It was also only the second time an NBA team didn't lose more than two games consecutively all year. The Bucks had also won their first Central Division crown, as the League was restructured. Six more in a row would follow.

Another streak, although much less enjoyable, began with the teams first post-season meeting with the Philadelphia 76ers. After seven grueling games, the Bucks lost to the Sixers in the Spectrum by just one point. The jinx was on.

Fan hopes for a strong 1981-82 season started on shaky footing as Marques Johnson held out for 18 games for a better contract. Also, 114 player games were missed during the season because of injuries. Lanier and Moncrief, now starting, were named to the All-Star team, and led the team to a 55-27 record and another division title.

Once again, it was the 76ers who stood in their way. After beating the Bucks in six games, the Sixers themselves lost to eventual champions Los Angeles.

For three of the next four seasons, the Bucks would manage to make it to the final four, only to be turned away by the Sixers or Celtics.

Nelson thought he received some unexpected help from the Celtics, though, just before the beginning of the 1982-83 season when his former team traded the rights to retired center Dave Cowens to Milwaukee for Buckner. When Cowens did appear on the same floor with Lanier that year, the Bucks had an incomparable front line. But those times were very few as either one or the other would invariably be injured.

Despite that, the Bucks managed a 51-31 record. Nelson was named NBA Coach of the Year for the masterful job he did of shuffling players to fill the holes left by injuries. Moncrief was the team leader now with both his scoring and tough defense. It was the first of two straight years in which he was named NBA Defensive Player of the Year.

And when the Bucks swept the Celtics in four games that year in the playoffs, it was beginning to look like a possible championship year. Moses Malone had another idea, however, nearly making good on his boast to sweep all the playoff games. Only Milwaukee managed to beat the Sixers in a playoff game that year, and just once, as they beat the Bucks 4-1, and became NBA champs later.

The Bucks suffered another one of their off-season setbacks prior to the 1983-84 season when shooting guard Brian Winters was forced into retirement by a back injury. His No. 32 jersey would soon be joined by No. 16 as this was "The Dobber's" last chance for an NBA crown.

Milwaukee did post a 50-32 record, a fourth straight 50-plus winning season, and a fifth straight division title. They led the League in defense, allowing only 101 points a game. Moncrief made the All-Star team.

The Bucks, now loaded with veterans such as Nate Archibald, easily handled the New Jersey Nets in the playoffs, 4-2. The revenge-minded Celtics were waiting for them, however, and beat the Bucks four games to one.

On Sept. 24, 1984, Lanier announced his retirement. As if to emphasize the changing of the guard, five days later Nelson traded star Marques Johnson, Junior Bridgeman, and Harvey Catchings to the Los Angeles Clippers for star Terry Cummings, Ricky Pierce, and Craig Hodges.

With Lanier gone that 1984-85 season, the Bucks had to go with previous backups Alton Lister and Randy Breuer, first round choices in 1981 and 1983 respectively, along with able veteran Paul Mokeski.

Lister aided the defense, which once again hinged on Moncrief and a surging Paul Pressey, who was drafted in the first round by the Bucks in 1982 and came into his own on both ends of the floor. The team flourished by setting a new home record of 36-5 while going 59-23 overall.

In a time of change, like 1976-77, Fitzgerald announced in March of 1985 that he was trying to sell the team. He said it could not make a profit without a larger arena or a sports cable TV network. Efforts to get either had failed. Fitzgerald said he would try to sell to a Milwaukee owner but rumors of a sale to Minneapolis persisted.

Enter once again Herb Kohl, the man who helped bring the Bucks to Milwaukee in 1967. Kohl, 52, purchased the team in March of 1985 and promised to keep it in Milwaukee. Adding to the euphoria was an almost immediate announcement by Lloyd and Jane Pettit that they would contribute over $50 million to construct a new, huge facility for the Bucks — the Bradley Center, due to open in 1988.

Fueled by such good news, the Bucks powered their way to the Final Four, rolling over the Chicago Bulls 3-1. The 76ers maintained their Milwaukee mastery, however, and the Bucks lost in four straight games.

Cummings and Moncrief were named All-Stars, and Moncrief joined Pressey on the All-Defensive team. Nelson was also named Coach of the Year for the second time in three years. Still, the larger stakes eluded them.

The divisional streak continued with another title in the 1985-86 season, after a 57-25 year. Moncrief and Pressey remained the defensive leaders, named to the All-Defensive team, while Moncrief was also an All-Star. While allowing only 105.5 points a game, the Bucks were scoring 114.5.

Once again they returned to the Eastern Conference finals by defeating New Jersey 3-0. More importantly, they finally broke the Philly jinx when Erving missed a jump shot as the clock expired in the seventh game at the Arena.

Milwaukee nevertheless repeated its misfortune of the year before by getting swept in the playoffs, this time by Boston, the eventual champs.

As the 1986-87 season neared, Kohl and Nelson decided once again that a new pivot man could be the answer to their problems. So on July 1, 1986 they traded Alton Lister and two first round draft choices, in 1987 and 1989, to the Seattle Supersonics for veteran center Jack Sikma.

Sikma, a 10-year veteran, responded by averaging 12.7 points and 10 rebounds a game. Whether he will be the missing piece to the Bucks 16-year-long championship drought is yet to be seen.

Another new face, John Lucas, joined the Bucks. When Pressey and Moncrief were out, it was the cagey veteran that insured the team's cohesiveness. After being acquired in January, he was third in team scoring with 17.5 points a game and averaged 6.7 assists.

With Pressey and Moncrief injured, the team did not repeat as divisional champs for the first time since 1978-79. Other players were given an opportunity, however. Ricky Pierce was named the NBA's Sixth Man of the Year, with a 19.5 scoring average. And Craig Hodges also continued in the League's elite in three-point baskets and in free-throws, making 131 of 147 of the latter.

The Bucks once again met the 76ers in the playoffs and proved they had beaten the hex the Sixers once had, topping them 3-2 in the series, and ending Dr. J's storied NBA career in Milwaukee.

The conference finals with the Celtics ranked as one of the finest series in Bucks' history as each game was a hard-fought contest. The Bucks came back from a 3-1 deficit to tie the series at 3-3, but the home court advantage proved decisive as the Celtics won, outscoring the Bucks over the course of the series by only two points.

Most of that drama was against the backdrop of another dramatic occurrence. After 10 years, Don Nelson, only the second coach in Bucks' history, resigned to become a part-owner of the Golden State Warriors, rejoining Fitzgerald.

Nelson had won his 500th game as a Bucks' coach on Nov. 26, 1986. His resignation came after the playoffs, and Del Harris, assistant coach, was named to replace him.

Harris was no stranger to the head coaching ranks. From 1979-83 he was the head coach of the Houston Rockets. In 1981, he coached them in the NBA Finals, losing to the Celtics.

One of Harris' first actions was to assemble a staff of Frank Hamblen, Mack Calvin, and former Buck Mike Dunleavy as his assistants. Then, in the June draft, he took 6-foot 9-inch Bob McCann, a 245-pound forward from Morehead State, in the second round, and Winston Garland, a 6'2" guard from S.W. Missouri State.

The Bucks' future continues to look bright with Harris at the helm, but luck also plays a large part. Injuries, trades, draft choices, and other intangibles can play key roles, as the past has proven.

All these factors were in play with Milwaukee getting its franchise and earning the rights to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Trades for Oscar Robertson, Bob Lanier, and Terry Cummings also helped shape the success of the franchise. Draft choices such as Greg Smith, Bob Dandridge, Sidney Moncrief, and Paul Pressey did likewise.

Of course, the Bucks have had their share of bad luck too. There was that Piston's warmup that felled Lucius Allen, David Meyers' decision to leave basketball prematurely, and Brian Winters' back problems.

And what if Dave Cowens could have stayed healthy for at least one season as Nelson had hoped?

Throughout their history, however, the Bucks have been a class organization in the eyes of the NBA and the city, and have been skillfully led by both owners and coaches.

Maybe the 20-year history of the Bucks is a good reflection on the work ethic that exists in Milwaukee itself.

That small group of men who started the quest for a franchise 20 years ago have wrought success. Hopefully, the story will continue to be a happy one and Milwaukee will keep getting a lot of "bangos" from its Bucks.

MILWAUKEE BUCKS PLAYOFF HISTORY

1969-70 — The Bucks (56-26) finished second in the Eastern Division behind the 60-win New York Knickerbockers. Division Semifinals: Milwaukee beats Philadelphia 4-1 to advance to the Division finals vs. the Knicks who had beat the Baltimore Bullets 4-1. Division finals: N.Y. beats Milwaukee 4-1 and then goes on to edge Los Angeles 4-3 to become NBA champions.

1970-71 — The Bucks (66-16) finished first in the Midwest Division with the best record in the Western Conference. Conference Semifinals: Milwaukee beats San Francisco 4-1 to gain the right to face Los Angeles in the Conference finals as the Lakers edge Chicago 4-3 in the other Conference semifinal. Conference Final: Milwaukee beat L.A. 4-1 and earns the right to face Eastern Conference winner Baltimore which edged the Knicks 4-3. Championship Series: Milwaukee captures its first NBA crown with a 4-0 sweep of the Bullets.

1971-72 — Milwaukee again sits atop the Midwest Division at 63-19, second best record in the Western Conference. Conference Semifinals: Milwaukee beats Golden State 4-1 to advance to the Conference final vs. 69 win Los Angeles who had beaten Chicago 4-0 in the other Western Conference semifinal. Conference Final: Milwaukee is beaten by Los Angeles 4-2.

1972-73 — Bucks third straight 60 win or better season brings them their third straight Midwest Division title and ties them with L.A. for the best record in the Western Conference at 60-22. Conference Semifinals: The Bucks are ambushed by Golden State 4-2.

1973-74 — Milwaukee wins their 4th straight Midwest title at 59-23. Conference Semifinal: Milwaukee beats Los Angeles 4-1 and advances to play Chicago who defeated Detroit 4-3 in the other Western Conference semifinal. Conference Final: The Bucks beat the Bulls 4-0 and meet Eastern Conference champion Boston who had beaten New York 4-1. Championship Series: In one of the classic championship series, the Celtics beat the Bucks 4-3.

1975-76 — The Bucks top the Midwest Division (38-44) with the sixth best record in the West. Western Conference First Round: Bucks are beaten in a miniseries by Detroit 2-1.

1977-78 — Milwaukee finishes second to Denver in the Midwest at 44-38. Western Conference First Round: The Bucks surprise the favored Phoenix Suns and sweep a miniseries 2-0. Conference Semifinal: The Bucks run up against Midwest Division champ Denver and lose an exciting and hard fought series 4-3.

1979-80 — The Bucks top the Midwest Division with a 49-33 mark and get a bye in the first round of the playoffs. Conference Semifinals: Bucks meet the Supersonics who had nipped the Portland Trail Blazers 2-1 in the first round, and lose a tough, rough seven game series 4-3.

1980-81 — Bucks shift to the Eastern Conference and the Central Division and top that group with a 60-22 mark to receive a bye in the first round. Philadelphia beats Indiana 2-0 for the right to face Milwaukee in the semis. Lose to Philly 4-3 in hard fought series.

1981-82 — The Bucks top the Central Division for the second straight year posting a 55-27 record, have a bye in the first round and then meet the Philadelphia 76ers who had beaten Atlanta 2-0 in the miniseries. Conference Semifinals: Milwaukee loses to the Sixers 4-2.

1982-83 — For the third consecutive year the Bucks are kingpins of the Central Division while winning their fourth overall division crown. Regular season record of 51-31 earns the club a first round bye and time to prepare for the Boston Celtics who were eliminating Atlanta in the miniseries. Milwaukee swept Boston in four straight for the right to play eventual champion Philadelphia in the Eastern Conference finals. Bucks managed just one win in five outings vs. the Sixers but it was an accomplishment in itself as Milwaukee was the only club in the playoffs to beat Philly whose overall playoff record was 12-1.

1983-84 — Once again and for the fifth consecutive season the Bucks win their division (four in a row in the Central) while making the NBA's final four for the second straight year. Regular season record of 50-32 didn't earn a bye as they were eliminated under the expanded playoff format. Bucks defeated Atlanta 3-2 in the opening round while New Jersey was surprising defending champion Philadelphia winning all three games on the Sixers court. Milwaukee beat the Nets 4-2 and gained the Eastern Conference finals vs. Boston where they lost out 4-1. The Celtics went on to win the NBA title. Boston defeated Washington and New York before meeting up with Milwaukee.

1984-85 — The Central Division title was captured by the Bucks for the fifth straight year making the club division title holders for six consecutive seasons. Taking a 59-23 regular season mark into the playoffs, the Bucks defeated division foe Chicago 3-1. Milwaukee was blind-sided in the next round of playoffs by the Philadelphia 76ers. The Bucks succumbed to the Sixers in four straight contests marking the only time the Bucks have been swept in the playoffs.

1985-86 — Milwaukee notched it's sixth straight Central Division title and seventh straight division crown by virtue of a 57-25 slate. The Bucks advanced to the Eastern Conference finals for the third time in four years by trouncing New Jersey, 3-0 and edging Philadelphia in the Eastern Conference finals, 4-3. Boston derailed the Bucks at that point, sweeping Milwaukee in four straight and going on to the NBA title.

1986-87 — The Bucks rolled to their seventh consecutive fifty win season (50-32) and while their streak of seven straight division championships was snapped, that record stands as the second best streak in League history trailing only Boston's nine straight division crowns dating back to the late 1950's. The Bucks opened the playoffs with a 3-2 series win over the Philadelphia 76ers before being eliminated by the Boston Celtics 4-3.

BUCKS HONOR PAST GREATS

Some past Milwaukee Bucks stars can still be seen hanging from the firmament in the Milwaukee Arena.

Well, their jerseys are doing most of the hanging round, really.

The newest number to join the others hanging on the Arena's north side is that of No. 2, Junior Bridgeman.

Bridgeman, 33, who had retired once and was called back for a brief stint with the Bucks last season, has played in more games as a Buck than any other player — 711.

From the time he was obtained in the trade with Los Angeles involving Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, in 1975, until he was traded back to Los Angeles, to the Clippers, in the Marques Johnson-Terry Cummings trade, he scored over 10,300 points in playoff and regular season contests. He appears on 11 of the team's 12 career statistical categories.

He is perhaps best remembered as a player who could score quickly and often. Don Nelson, who believed in keeping a good player in reserve as a sixth man, did just that with Bridgeman. On many teams he would have been a starter. For much of his career, he was considered the best sixth man in the NBA.

Bridgeman was a quiet, humorous man both on and off the court and he reflected the best of the franchise at both times.

Bridgeman joins Oscar Robertson, No. 1, Jon McGlocklin, No. 14, Brian Winters, No. 32, and Bob Lanier, No. 16, in the Bucks roster of retired jerseys.

Robertson was the first Buck to have his number retired. He joined McGlocklin as a member of the Bucks 1970-71 championship team. In his career the "Big O" scored more points (26,710), had more assists (9,987), sank more free throws (7,964), and played in more games (1,035) than any other guard in NBA history. He was the NBA MVP in the All-Star game three times and overall MVP in 1964. He was an All-Star 11 times.

The Bucks obtained him in a trade with Cincinnati involving Charlie Paulk and Flynn Robinson in 1970, and Oscar became the catalyst for the Bucks' championship. He now runs a chemical and construction company in Cincinnati.

McGlocklin also played a key role in the championship year and those halcyon days. Still involved with the Bucks as a broadcaster, McGlocklin played with the Bucks from 1968-76. He was acquired in the expansion draft when the Bucks were formed in 1968.

A pure shooter noted for his "rainbow jumpers," "Gentleman Jon" averaged 12.5 points a game and his .505 field goal percentage is among the best in League history.

McGlocklin and former Milwaukee Brewer Sal Bando are partners in Bando-McGlocklin Investment Co., Inc., and Jon remains active in the charity he helped found, Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer, as its president.

Brian Winters was another pure-shooting guard for the Bucks who could hit the outside jump shot. Winters, like Bridgeman, came to Milwaukee in the Abdul-Jabbar trade. In his eight years here, he averaged 16.7 points per game in the regular season and 15.6 in the playoffs. He was named to the NBA All-Rookie team in 1975 and was named an All-Star in 1975-76 and 1977-78.

Last season he assisted Coach Lenny Wilkens with the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Bob Lanier, like McGlocklin, has stayed in the Milwaukee area, operating Bob Lanier Enterprises, Inc., a promotional merchandising business.

"The Dobber" also gives freely of his time to local charities and alcohol and drug awareness programs.

Joining the Bucks in 1979-80, he led the team to five straight playoff seasons. In his 14-year career, nine and a half with the Detroit Pistons, he averaged 20.1 points a game, grabbed 9,698 rebounds, and played in eight All-Star games. He was the NBA Rookie of the Year in 1971 and All-Star MVP in 1974.

1974-75

Record: 38-44 (Fourth, Midwest Division)

Regular Season Highlights: The Bucks endured what might have been their most frustrating season ... a pre-season broken hand kept Kareem Abdul-Jabbar sidelined for the first sixteen games of the season and the club went 3-13, putting them far behind Midwest Division rivals ... a mid-season knee injury kept All-Star guard Jim Price sidelined for the last half of the season ... Kareem, Price, and Bob Dandridge were named to the All-Star team, marking the first time in club history that three members had been named to the All-Star squad ... the club's longest winning streak of the season was five games ... the Bucks stayed in playoff contention for the wild card berth until the last week of the season before falling short ... the Bucks lost 18 games during the fretful year by five points or less, and 11 of those were by three points or fewer ... Kareem was third in the NBA in scoring (30 ppg) while Dandridge finished 18th with a 19.9 average.

Honors: Kareem Abdul-Jabbar — NBA All-Star Team and All-Defensive Team ... Jim Price — NBA All-Star Team ... Bob Dandridge — NBA All-Star Team.

1975-76

Record: 38-44 (First, Midwest Division)

Playoff Record: Lost to Detroit, Conference Miniseries, 2-1

Regular Season Highlights: On June 16, 1975 the Bucks executed one of the biggest trades in NBA history by sending Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and reserve center Walt Wesley to the Los Angeles Lakers in exchange for center Elmore Smith, guard Brian Winters, and two All-American rookies, David Meyers and Junior Bridgeman . . . as the season progressed, all four of these acquisitions proved to make important contributions . . . Smith became a consistent performer at center, leading the team in rebounding during the season with 11.4 per game . . . Winters put his marksmanship to work and averaged over 18 points a game and made the NBA West All-Star team . . . Bridgeman played both guard and forward, starting 19 games and averaging over 20 minutes per game . . . Meyers showed outstanding rebounding potential, banging the boards hard in 34 starts at the strong forward slot . . . All-Star Bob Dandridge averaged 21.5 points per game while ranking among the top ten scorers in the League . . . the Bucks set a team record for fewest points in a game at Chicago November 28, 1975 with 69 . . . Coach Larry Costello signed a new two-year pact just prior to the playoffs.

Playoff Highlights: The Milwaukee Bucks were beat in the first round of the best of three playoff series 2-1 by Detroit.

Honors: Bob Dandridge — NBA All-Star Team . . . Brian Winters — NBA All-Star Team.

1976-77

Record: 30-52 (Sixth, Midwest Division)

Regular Season Highlights: The Bucks saw a major shakeup within the organization -- just 18 games into the season Larry Costello resigned as Head Coach and assistant coach Don Nelson took over the reigns . . . other changes came about involving the club's management structure as a group headed by James F. Fitzgerald, William J. Blake, and J.P. Cullen and Son Corporation purchased 361,000 outstanding shares of Milwaukee Professional Sports and Services common stock . . . Fitzgerald became Chairman of the Board and President of the Corporation . . . Wayne Embry, formerly General Manager of the club, became a consultant, thus relinquishing his day-to-day responsibilities . . . Embry's duties were split between Don Nelson, who handled player personnel matters, and John Steinmiller, who was promoted to Director of Business Operations (in charge of the day-to-day functions of the club) . . . on the court Bob Dandridge turned in a solid performance averaging 20.8 points . . . Swen Nater set the Bucks' record for rebounds in a single game with 33 vs. Atlanta December 19, 1976 . . . Quinn Buckner had 9 steals vs. Indiana on January 2, 1977 to set a team mark . . . the Bucks set two team single game records -- with 30 offensive rebounds and 21 steals vs. Indiana on January 2, 1977 . . . Brian Winters and Junior Bridgeman also averaged in double figures as did Nater, who was then traded to Cleveland for a first round draft choice that became Marques Johnson . . . behind the direction of Rick Sund, Don Nelson, and Wayne Embry the club drafted and subsequently signed three first round choices in Kent Benson, Johnson, and Ernie Grunfeld . . . John Killilea, once a scout for the Bucks and more recently assistant coach of the Boston Celtics, joined Don Nelson in the coaching ranks as Assistant Coach and Assistant Director of Player Personnel.

1977-78

Record: 44-38 (Second, Midwest Division)

Playoff Record: Beat Phoenix, Conference Miniseries, 2-0
Lost to Denver, Conference Semifinals, 4-3

Regular Season Highlights: The Bucks parlayed an exceptional draft of Kent Benson, Marques Johnson, and Ernie Grunfeld along with veterans Junior Bridgeman, Quinn Buckner, Dave Meyers, and Brian Winters into an exciting season for a young team that as of yet did not have valuable playoff experience. . . . Johnson set the Bucks' record for offensive rebounds in a season with 292 . . . the Bucks set an all time NBA record by winning eight overtime games.

Playoff Highlights: The fate of the playoff-hopeful Bucks hinged upon Seattle beating Golden State on the final game of the 902-game NBA regular season schedule . . . the scene was an anxious one for the Bucks as players, coaches, and fans alike stood anxiously by listening to the radio for a special play-by-play feed of the Sonics-Warriors game -- Seattle defeated Golden State, sending the Bucks to pack for a battle with Phoenix . . . Milwaukee swept the favored Suns 2-0 in the mini-series, thus advancing to the conference semifinal . . . the Bucks took Denver to a tough seven games before succumbing . . . the Bucks set five team playoff records in one game on April 23, 1978 vs. Denver -- FG% (.660), blocked shots (13), most points half (87), most points quarter (47, fourth quarter), and assists (46).

Honors: Brian Winters — NBA All-Star Team . . . Quinn Buckner — NBA All-Defensive Second Team . . . Marques Johnson — NBA All-Rookie Team.

Record: 38-44 (Fourth, Midwest Division)

Regular Season Highlights: The Bucks lost future star Alex English to Indiana via the free agent market . . . Dave Meyers was lost for all 82 games of the regular season due to a back injury . . . there were bright spots however, as Marques Johnson was named to the NBA All-Star Team, receiving more fan votes than any other player in the Western Conference . . . Marques finished third in the NBA in scoring with a 25.6 average; that was highest among all forwards and centers in the League . . . Junior Bridgeman finished the season with a 15.5 average, tops among sixth men in the League . . . the Bucks shattered the NBA assist record with 2,562 on the year for a 31.2 average . . . the Bucks broke nine regular season single game team records . . . 158 points vs. New Orleans March 14, 1979; 87 points in a half vs. New Orleans March 14, 1979; largest margin of victory came vs. Detroit December 26, 1978 (59 points, 143-84); 69 FGM vs. New Orleans March 14, 1979; 131 FGA at Washington March 16, 1979; FT% at Boston March 24, 1979 (1.000, 23-23); 53 assists in a game vs. Detroit December 26, 1978; 30 assists in a half vs. Detroit December 26, 1978; and 21 steals vs. New Orleans March 14, 1979.

1979-80

Record: 49-33 (First, Midwest Division)

Playoff Record: Lost to Seattle, Conference Semifinals, 4-3

Regular Season Highlights: The Bucks rebounded with another Midwest Division title -- it was a season of highs and lows as the Bucks sprinted to an early lead with an NBA season-best ten consecutive victories only to lose six straight in December to close their cushion . . . Quinn Buckner was sidelined with a recurring hamstring problem . . . at the All-Star break the Bucks dealt Kent Benson and a first round draft choice for Bob Lanier . . . after Lanier's arrival the team went 20-6 on their way to the division title.

Playoff Highlights: Milwaukee makes its eighth playoff appearance in the club's twelve-year history . . . the Bucks draw the defending champion Seattle Supersonics and don't fall until the seventh and final contest at the Kingdome . . . the series was marked by a then NBA record crowd (40,172) in Game #5 . . . Games #1 and #2 were highlighted by overtime play with each club taking a contest.

Honors: Marques Johnson — NBA All-Star Team and All-NBA Second Team . . . Quinn Buckner — NBA All-Defensive Second Team.

1981-82

Record: 55-27 (First, Central Division)

Playoff Record: Lost to Philadelphia, Conference Semifinals, 4-2

Regular Season Highlights: The Bucks captured their third straight division title and second consecutive Central Division title . . . it was also the second straight year Milwaukee posted the largest season-ending division lead in the NBA (13 games) . . . Milwaukee had to overcome such adversities as an 18-game holdout by All-Star Marques Johnson at the start of the season and weather the storm of 114 player games missed due to injury, necessitating 15 different starting lineups . . . Sidney Moncrief was unleashed on the League and his performance landed him a berth on the All-Star squad . . . Center Bob Lanier also made the All-Star squad . . . Milwaukee's mid-season skein of 12 straight set a then NBA season mark . . . the Bucks score a team record 166 points, including a team record 97 in the first half, vs. San Antonio March 6, 1982 in a classic three overtime thriller.

Playoff Highlights: Again Philadelphia met Milwaukee in the playoffs, but this time the short-handed Bucks succumbed to the Sixers in six games . . . Alton Lister tied the Bucks' playoff mark for blocked shots in a game with 7 at Philadelphia May 5, 1982.

Honors: Sidney Moncrief — NBA All-Star Team, All-NBA Second Team, and NBA All-Defensive Team . . . Bob Lanier — NBA All-Star Team . . . Quinn Buckner — NBA All-Defensive Second Team.

1982-83

Record: 51-31 (First, Central Division)

Playoff Record: Beat Boston, Conference Semifinals, 4-0
Lost to Philadelphia, Conference Finals, 4-1

Regular Season Highlights: Once again, injuries created a lot of shuffling of lineups, but NBA Coach of the Year Don Nelson guided the team to a fourth straight division title . . . Sidney Moncrief was named the NBA Defensive Player of the Year and also to the All-NBA team while leading the club with a 22.5 scoring average . . . teammate Marques Johnson, named to the All-Star team along with Moncrief, was a big plus for the Bucks, hitting for 1,714 points to lead the team . . . the Bucks set a franchise record by blocking 532 shots and by committing a low 1,421 turnovers on the season, resulting in an opponents' season low 623 steals.

Playoff Highlights: The Bucks swept the fabled Boston Celtics 4-0 in the Eastern Conference Semifinals . . . the Bucks then faced eventual NBA Champion Philadelphia in the Eastern Conference Finals and lost 4-1, but handed Philadelphia their only playoff loss of the season . . . Johnson led the way during the second season averaging 22 points per contest.

Honors: Sidney Moncrief — NBA All-Star Team, NBA Defensive Player of the Year, All-NBA Team and NBA All-Defensive Team . . . Marques Johnson — NBA All-Star Team . . . Don Nelson — NBA Coach of the Year.

1983-84

Record: 50-32 (First, Central Division)

Playoff Record: Beat Atlanta, First Round, 3-2
Beat New Jersey, Conference Semifinals, 4-2
Lost to Boston, Conference Finals, 4-1

Regular Season Highlights: For the fifth consecutive season the Bucks won their division, while making the NBA's final four for the second straight year . . . the Bucks led the League in defense allowing just 101.5 ppg while also leading the League in defensive FG% (.456%) -- the club also set a new low water mark for turnovers (1,385 or 16.9 per game) . . . Junior Bridgeman moved into the top spot on the all-time games played list . . . Marques Johnson scored his 10,000th point in front of a national CBS audience . . . Moncrief set the Bucks' mark for FTM in a season, 529.

Playoff Highlights: Under the expanded playoff format the Bucks were pushed to five games before defeating Atlanta in the opening series; they then beat New Jersey 4-2 in the conference semifinals, before losing to the Boston Celtics 4-1 in the Eastern Conference Finals . . . Bucks set a team single playoff game mark of 55 FTA at New Jersey May 3, 1984 (42 FTM).

Honors: Sidney Moncrief — NBA All-Star Team, NBA Defensive Player of the Year, All-NBA Second Team, and NBA All-Defensive Team.

Record: 59-23 (First, Central Division)

Playoff Record: Beat Chicago, First Round, 3-1
Lost to Philadelphia, Conference Semifinals, 4-0

Regular Season Highlights: The Bucks won their sixth consecutive division crown, finishing more than a dozen games in front of runner-up Detroit . . . key reason Bucks remained dominant was a pre-season (Sept. 29, 1984) trade that netted Terry Cummings (27.5 ppg, NBA All-Star and All-NBA Second Team), Ricky Pierce and Craig Hodges in exchange for Marques Johnson, Junior Bridgeman, Harvey Catchings, and an undisclosed amount of cash . . . for the fifth straight season the Bucks ended with at least 50 victories while averaging 55 wins per outing over that five-year span . . . with Sidney Moncrief and Paul Pressey as its backbone, the Milwaukee defense led the League for the second time in a row by allowing just 104 ppg . . . the Bucks set a new club standard for home wins by recording a stellar 36-5 mark . . . Pressey set the Bucks' turnover mark for a season at 245.

Playoff Highlights: In the opening round of the playoffs, the Bucks defeated the upstart Chicago Bulls, 3-1, but things didn't go quite as well in the Eastern Conference Semifinals where the Philadelphia 76ers swept the Bucks in four straight contests . . . Pressey tied the Bucks' single playoff game mark for assists vs. Philadelphia April 30, 1985 and vs. Philadelphia May 7, 1985 with 16 in each outing.

Honors: Sidney Moncrief — NBA All-Star Team, NBA All-Defensive Team, and All-NBA Second Team . . . Terry Cummings — NBA All-Star Team and All-NBA Second Team . . . Paul Pressey — NBA All-Defensive Team . . . Don Nelson — NBA Coach of the Year.

1985-86

Record: 57-25 (First, Central Division)

Playoff Record: Beat New Jersey, First Round, 3-0
Beat Philadelphia, Conference Semifinals, 4-3
Lost to Boston, Conference Finals, 4-0

Regular Season Highlights: The Bucks notched their sixth straight Central Division title, and seventh straight division crown, finishing a comfortable seven games in front of Atlanta . . . Milwaukee set team records for FTM (2,063) and FTA (2,701) in a season, while also lowering the team mark for turnovers for the third straight season with just 1,369 bobbles . . . the Bucks set a single game record for field goal percentage when they scorched the nets at .667% in a rout of Sacramento, 140-82, on December 15, 1985 . . . Craig Hodges set Bucks' records for 3-point FGM (73) and 3-point FGA (162) for a season.

Playoff Highlights: The Bucks advanced to the Eastern Conference finals for the third time in four years by trouncing New Jersey, 3-0, and edging Philadelphia, 4-3 . . . Boston derailed the Bucks at that point, sweeping Milwaukee in four straight . . . Paul Pressey set the Bucks' single game playoff record for FTM (15) and FTA (17) vs. Philadelphia May 7, 1986 . . . Craig Hodges steals 8 at Philadelphia May 9, 1986 for the Bucks' single game playoff record, and as a team the Bucks steal 19 for the team playoff record.

Honors: Sidney Moncrief — NBA All-Star Team, All-NBA Second Team, and NBA All-Defensive Team . . . Paul Pressey — NBA All-Defensive Team.

1986-87

Record: 50-32 (Third, Central Division)

Playoff Record: Beat Philadelphia, First Round, 3-2
Lost to Boston, Conference Semifinals, 4-3

Regular Season Highlights: As the second most successful franchise in NBA history, the Bucks continued their winning ways despite experiencing a club record number of injuries . . . rolled to seventh consecutive fifty-win season . . . streak of seven straight division championships snapped (that record stands as the second best streak in League history, trailing only Boston's nine straight division crowns dating back to the late '50's) . . . 500% or better record in every month enabled the club to stretch its monthly winning streak (of +.500% basketball) to an incredible 50 months . . . eight straight winning seasons ties Boston, trailing only Philadelphia's run of eleven winning years in a row and Lakers' string of nine . . . perfect 24-0 when holding opponents under the century mark and 43 straight dating back to the previous season . . . individually, Jack Sikma, acquired in a pre-season trade with Seattle with two second round draft picks for Alton Lister and two first round draft picks, provided consistent play from the pivot . . . Sidney Moncrief reached the 10,000 point plateau in front of a national television audience . . . Junior Bridgeman, one of the most popular players ever to don a Bucks uniform, returned to familiar surroundings on January 4 — has played in more games in a Bucks uniform (711) than any player in history . . . John Lucas was acquired in mid-January to plug a hole when injuries mounted and added leadership, stability, and some magical moments . . . club set an all-time attendance mark averaging an even 11,000 fans in 41 Arena dates, including 36 sellouts — only 2,145 seats went unsold the entire season while playing to .995% of capacity . . . shortly after the season Del Harris was named to replace Don Nelson as Head Coach.

Playoff Highlights: The Bucks drew longtime playoff nemesis Philadelphia in the First Round and it took five games and the homecourt advantage to defeat the 76ers for the second straight year in the playoffs, putting an end to any hexes that may have existed . . . game five vs. Philadelphia marked the final NBA game for Julius Erving . . . Moncrief returned to form vs. Boston and posted back-to-back games of 33 and 34 in the Eastern Conference Finals . . . still, that inspired play was not enough as the Bucks succumbed to the World Champions in a highly competitive seven-game series, 4-3.

Honors: Ricky Pierce — NBA Sixth Man Award.

Patrons with special needs, such as the wheelchair bound, will have seating on the first and third concourses and won't feel separated from the rest of the crowd. There will be special keyboard telephones for the hearing impaired. At the two main entrances, one of the bank of eight doors will be operated by an electronic touch pad for easy opening by the disabled.

The latest in computerized and electronic controls will govern the heating, air conditioning, ventilation, security and communication systems in the Bradley Center. Most of these functions will be monitored from a central control room on the ground floor. For instance, the electronic security system will detect a door that is only slightly ajar.

Sporting events are not the only attraction of the Bradley Center. It will be capable of housing large family and musical events. In fact, in anticipation of the Center's many uses, the designers have provided entryways at the ground level which allow semitrailers to be driven completely inside the building. They will be able to unload on the arena floor and then drive out through the opposite entrance.

The latest in electronics and interior circuitry will also assist the media. As many as four television stations will be able to broadcast simultaneously from any of three locations in the arena. Members of the media will be able to transmit information about Bradley Center events and receive information on sporting events elsewhere on a real-time basis. The Bradley Center will be a full-fledged modern communications center.

The sophistication and quality of the building's interior will be matched by its outside appearance. The Bradley Center is being clad in polished and flame treated South Dakota granite. The same gray-pink granite will be used in the pedestals for the columns in the atriums. The huge vaulted roof will be a lead-coated copper dome.

The Bradley Center is a private, nonprofit corporation. The $53 million structure is a gift to the Milwaukee community from Jane and Lloyd Pettit in honor of Mrs. Pettit's father, Harry Bradley. Mr. Bradley was one of the founders of the Allen-Bradley Co., a national manufacturer of electrical controls.

The Bradley Center is designed by Hellmuth, Obata & Kassabaum of Kansas City, Mo., and Venture Architects, which is a joint venture between the Milwaukee architectural firms of Kahler, Slater, Torphy Architects and the Zimmerman Design Group.
